

Byrnes Turns Over $22,800 to Scholar Fund at Green Bay

Gift Includes All Profits

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Scholarships, Inc., of Green Bay, today received $22,800 from sale of 866 shares of Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Co. stock given to the organization by Rep. John Byrnes.

The transaction was the result of a pledge in a house speech by Byrnes Nov. 21 to give the profits from a controversial 1960 stock purchase to the Green Bay charity. Byrnes said he would give the profits to Scholarships, Inc., because he had determined, in investigating the stock purchase, that he had received a preferential price under that existing in the stock market at the time.

Gift Accepted
"Mrs. Byrnes and I have transferred ownership of all the MGIC stock in our possession in accordance with my previously announced intention to realize no personal gain from the shares. We extend to Scholarships, Inc., our wish for every success in its program of making college education possible for deserving young people in our home town," Byrnes said in a statement to Scholarships, Inc.

In making the announcement, Scholarships, Inc., said it was "pleased to announce that (it) has accepted a contribution from Rep. and Mrs. John Byrnes which will materially assist us in furthering the objectives of this organization."

"We are deeply grateful for the Byrnes' contribution. It will make it possible for us to continue and enlarge our program of financial help for worthy area students in pursuit of higher education," the organization said.

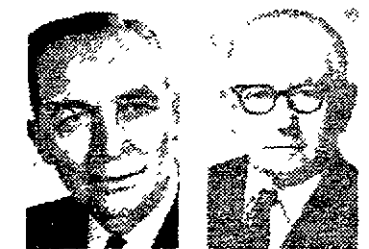

Shares Sold Yesterday
John M. Rose, treasurer, said Byrnes transferred ownership of the 866 MGIC shares and they were sold Monday. Donation in the form of the transferred shares rather than the proceeds publican nomination for U.S. senator and said he hopes his campaign will appeal to independent voters as well as GOP regulars.

The 55-year-old Republican, who has established a reputation as a moderate, told a news conference he plans to tailor his campaign to suit voters not aligned with either political extreme.

Supporters from the far right were specifically singled out as unwanted. "I will not take any support from the John Birch Society," Renk said. "They're not going to be for me and I'm not going to be for them."

Difficult Race
Then in a jab at the man he expects to face in the general election — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. — Renk said he would attempt to convince voters that Wisconsin needs "statesmen, not politicians."

"I realize this will be a difficult race," Renk said. "The opponent I will face is a relentless campaigner. But maybe he's a better campaigner than he is a Senator, and I will point this out with clarity and vigor."

Renk's announcement was made at a crowded news conference in a downtown Madison hotel. With the candidate were his wife, Helen, and family members including two grandchildren, Craig and Cynthia Tomlin of Stoughton. Craig is four, Cynthia is two months.

Peterson Present
Republican leaders on hand included Talbot Peterson, GOP state chairman, Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, Secretary of State Robert Zimmerman, and State Treasurer Dena Smith.

Storm Causes 92 Fatalities, Maroons Many Travelers

New York's Times Square is deserted Monday night under a blanket of wind-whipped snow. A 19-hour storm deposited 13 inches of snow on the city. This view looks south toward 42nd Street. Many New York schools were closed today and about 3,000 travelers spent Monday night at Kennedy International Airport after all flights were canceled after runways were drifted in.

Drifts Up to 20 Feet in Some Areas

BY RICHARD F. WHALEN
Associated Press Writer

The howling snowstorm that blasted much of eastern United States—worst in years in spots—left scores dead in its wake today. Huge drifts marooned thousands of travelers overnight.

The death toll was at least 92. The storm system that swirled into blizzard proportions in the Northeast dumped more than two feet of snow in some sections. Gale force winds whipped the snow into drifts—some 20 feet high.

Many school systems, including those in New York City and Philadelphia, closed today. Business closings were widespread.

3,000 at Airport

About 3,000 travelers spent the night at Kennedy International Airport in New York after all flights were canceled because of drifts on the runways. In Pennsylvania, 250 pupils were marooned overnight at a high school.

Their reaction, as one put it: "Down with snowplows. This is the swiftest party of the year."

Storm in Midwest

The Midwestern half of the storm battered Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, leaving thousands snowbound Sunday night and Monday. Drifts were reported 20 feet high in some Ohio areas.

Youngstown, Ohio, with 16 inches, called it the worst snowstorm in 13 years. St. Louis had 8 1/2 inches, the most in six years.

The southern half of the storm brought Florida its first snow in six years. It melted quickly, but plunging temperatures were the main concern with below-freezing temperatures recorded in central Florida.

The storms converged and their combined punch smacked them as Mr. and Mrs. John the Northeast Washington's Pelton, their two children, and Capt. Christopher de Grabowski, skipper of the schooner the Enchantress.

Ages and addresses were unavailable as were the names of the children. The vessel left Charleston, S.C., Jan. 10 for St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

The last word from the 58-foot schooner was a distress message radioed Monday that water was knee-deep in the cabin and that the passengers and skipper were going over the side in two dinghies. All had life jackets.

First Emergency Call
Winds in the area were estimated at 35 to 40 knots with seas running 15 to 20 feet. Temperatures dropped to near freezing.

The first emergency call was intercepted by the Coast Guard at 4:08 p.m. Monday. "I am sinking rapidly," the unidentified caller said. "I have five persons on board."

"I've got two dinghies which won't last long in these seas," he said.

Road Conditions — Roads were reported in good condition, except for scattered slippery spots in Marathon and Outagamie Counties.

Sun sets at 4:38 p.m., rises Wednesday at 7:25 a.m. New Moon today. Visible planets are Saturn, Venus and Jupiter.

Robert Kennedy To Confer With Indonesian Chief

BY LARRY OSIUS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy leaves today on a trouble-shooting mission for President Johnson — a meeting with Indonesian President Sukarno on the Malaysian situation.

The White House said Monday that Kennedy probably will see Sukarno Thursday in Tokyo where the Indonesian leader will be vacationing. Details were to be announced after Kennedy conferred with Johnson this morning.

Assistant White House press secretary Andrew Hatcher said Monday that Kennedy would be discussing with Sukarno the Malaysian situation. Sukarno has publicly and repeatedly vowed his intention to crush "neo-colonialism" in Malaysia — meaning British support of the newly formed state.

OAS Peace Committee Meets With Negotiators in Dispute

Accused of Second Degree Murder in Death of Infant Son

WAUKESHA (AP) — La Vern A. Hengen, a Waukesha foundry laborer who authorities say admitted mishandling his seven-month-old son during a family argument, was charged Monday with second degree murder.

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Murphy said that Hengen told of lifting his son, Jeffrey, from an infant chair Sunday "harder than I should have." Murphy said the baby also bumped his head as Hengen "walked angrily through a doorway" with the boy in his arms.

The boy was found in his crib by his 30-year-old mother, Donna, and was pronounced dead a few hours later at a Waukesha hospital. Death was due to in-24 hours on a country to take ternal hemorrhaging, according to Coroner James Welch.

The case against Hengen who severance of diplomatic rela-between the United States and Panama were deadlocked today after the United States rejected a Panamanian demand that it promise to review the Panama Canal treaty as a condition for resuming relations.

Diplomatic sources said the United States refused to make such a pledge under pressure.

The peace committee of the Organization of American States scheduled another meeting today with the U.S. and Panamanian negotiators. The committee postponed its departure for Washington in an effort to help restore diplomatic relations.

But Panamanian Foreign Minister Galileo Solis said his government would decide within a few hours later at a country to take ternal hemorrhaging, according to Coroner James Welch.

Washington—the final step in the case against Hengen who severance of diplomatic rela-security of the Panama Canal to be imperiled."

"The United States continues to believe that when order is fully restored, it should be possible to have direct and candid discussions between the two governments," said the statement, issued after Assistant Secretary of State Thomas C. Mann returned from Panama and conferred with President Johnson for 2 hours and 20 minutes.

There were no outbreaks of violence Monday, although anti-U.S. sentiment was still apparent. Signs reading "Avenue of the Martyrs" appeared on President Kennedy Avenue, the street dividing the Canal Zone from Panama City, where some of the fiercest rioting occurred last week.

Return to Embassy
In Panama City, business houses reopened and American personnel returned to the U.S. Embassy for the first time.

Panama Wants Complete Break

WASHINGTON (AP)—Panama was reported today to have notified the United States that it intends to go through with a complete break in diplomatic relations and is demanding withdrawal of U.S. diplomats.

In that situation President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk appeared to have no choice, under normal international law, but to order the departure of the ranking U.S. diplomat, Wallace Stuart, and his staff.

since they evacuated the building Friday.

U.S. military authorities at Balboa announced that an evacuation would probably begin today of dependents of U.S. military and civilian personnel desiring to return to the United States rather than return to their homes in the Panama republic.

At Balboa High School and other schools in the Canal Zone, workers began erecting twin flagpoles Sunday in line with the U.S.-Panamanian agreement to fly flags of both nations side by side in the zone.

Workmen Heckled
Groups of U.S. students in cars yelled at the workmen: "We'll never go back to school there." Student defiance of the flag regulations last week mushroomed into the violence that brought relations between the

$3.4 Billion In Foreign Aid To be Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has told congressional leaders he plans to earmark $3.4 billion for foreign aid spending in the new $97.9 billion budget he will submit next week.

The figure, confirmed by Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, would represent a modest $269 million cut under the actual amount available to the Agency for International Development in the current year ending next July 1.

A presidential committee reviewing overseas assistance is expected to recommend sweeping changes in the aid setup as a result of growing congressional reluctance to vote funds for the program.

Without professing to know any details of these recommendations, Mansfield called in an interview for a division of responsibility among the non-Communist powers that would permit the United States to concentrate economic assistance in Latin America.

"Latin America is the most important area to us," Mansfield said.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Air and surface vessels searched heavy seas 160 miles east of Jacksonville today for five persons forced to abandon a sinking schooner.

Pilot Reaches Safety

4 Fliers Believed to Have Bailed Out Before Crash of Jet Bomber

CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP)—A search started in clear weather today for four Strategic Air Command fliers who are believed to have parachuted from a stricken jet bomber which carried two nuclear weapons.

The pilot of the eight-engine B52 which crashed in a snowstorm Monday staggered through a forest to safety in a farmhouse. He is Maj. Thomas W. McCormick of Yawkey, W. Va.

Ordered Bail-out
McCormick said he ordered his crew to jump. Although that was at least 36 hours ago over mountains covered by up to 18 inches of snow and although overnight temperatures were zero and below, an Air Force spokesman expressed optimism about their safety.

He said the men had been land-thoroughly trained in survival. "They've been trained to stick together," he said.

Maj. Gen. James W. Wilson, director of material for the Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha, arrived to take charge of two disaster control teams which will inspect the nuclear weapons for damage.

No Danger of Blast
When assured they have all the components, the men will take the weapons to an Air Force Logistics Command base.

The Air Force declined to say how or when the weapons would be transported but emphasized there was no danger of atomic blast or radioactivity. The plane crashed into a torpedoesman expressed optimism about the Appalachian range about 20 miles west of Cumberland.

McCormick was taken in good condition to a Cumberland hospital.

He said "it was real rugged when I came down and I hit a tree stump, injuring my left leg. I immediately set up a tent from my survival kit, started a fire and settled down for the night."

Went to Farmhouse
He waited for sunrise, then trudged to a farmhouse near Grantsville, Md., about three miles from where the plane went down.

He said he believed the other four men also had parachuted before the crash. They were identified as Capt. Parker C. Peeden, 29, Smithfield, N.C.; Maj. Robert L. Pavne, 41, Tulsa, Okla.; Maj. Robert E. Townley, 42, Glad-

Avoids Cocktail Parties

Gronouski Gets Into Swing Of Postmaster General's Job

BY JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Johnson talks with Postmaster General John A. Gronouski about the postal system, he's talking with a man who owns only one pair of shoes.
And the Cabinet officer who hasn't bothered to buy another pair didn't bother to buy a tuxedo until he had been in Washington for several weeks.
As for cocktail parties, he regards them in a way that should delight the President who thinks there are better ways for government people to spend their time. "They're the supreme form of self-torture and a waste of time besides."
He is very happy working for Johnson and being postmaster general, a task he regards as "the best job I ever had."
Kennedy Addressee
Gronouski, 44, has been in office since Sept. 30, when he became President John F. Kennedy's last Cabinet appointment.
At first bewildered by the magnitude of the new job, Gronouski now regards the Post Office Department as home. And he looked the part as he was interviewed in his vast, well-appointed office.
The former Wisconsin tax commissioner tilted his green leather chair as far back as it could go and stretched his feet in the one and only pair of black, scuffed shoes—onto the top of his desk.

Picking up his curved pipe, he filled it with tobacco from a commercial pouch and tamped it with a thumb. Sucking on a cough drop in anticipation of laryngitis, John Gronouski reflected on his new life.
Enjoys His Work
"I'm having a lot of fun. I've enjoyed this job tremendously. There have been no serious headaches—and I wouldn't have taken the job if there weren't a few small ones. They could have given it to a clerk if there were no headaches at all."

Gronouski—master of nearly 590,000 employees, commanding a pay roll of nearly $10 million a day—said he is getting the knack of it now.
He had unstinting praise for President Johnson.
"I've had wonderful relations with him and respect him very much," Gronouski said of the President. "He's made himself completely accessible to me when I have something I feel I should discuss with him. Of course, I'm careful not to bother him with anything frivolous."
Johnson Knows Problems
Gronouski said Johnson shows an acute awareness of details of the postal operation.
"I could talk details of the postal system with him and by God, he was well aware of them. I have thoroughly enjoyed working with him. He seems to respect my opinion as I do his."
Gronouski lifted his feet from the desk and puffed away at his pipe as the grandfather's clock across the room whirled on. In a relaxed conversation, his talk frequently into a bag of mild profanity for emphasis.
He spoke warmly of "my favorite hobby — politics" and promised to do what he could to get Johnson elected in November.
No Startling Ideas
Asked if he has any startling new ideas like zip code to modernize the postal system, Gronouski said:
"I guess I ought to be ashamed to admit this, but I don't have any 'brave new world' ideas. My only idea is an old idea—to come in here and evaluate every phase of the operation, and to manage it economically, efficiently and so as to give the best kind of service."
The stocky, graying cabinet officer said he is "wholly, totally and unequivocally committed" to fair employment practices in the postal system regardless of race or color.
"I was committed to that idea before it ever became an executive order," he said. "And I can assure you that President Johnson has made it clear in cabinet meetings that he is solidly committed to it."

Kimberly High School Minor Faults Repaired

All Corrections Being Made at Cost Of Contractors; No Mistakes Major

KIMBERLY — Minor faults in the new high school building now are being repaired and corrected by the school's contractors, the board of education was told Monday.
Corrections include warping of outside doors, cracks in plaster, faulty ceiling tile, terrazzo cracks, chipped chalk boards, painting flaws, faulty plumbing and electrical installation, and other minor mishaps found after inspection of the building.
School board members and architects said none of the faults were major, but routine matters found in most new school construction.
Minor Flaws
Minor flaws were found in the heating system, keeping it from operating at peak efficiency. Faults included leaks in the high pressure duct system, causing faulty air flow to some rooms. Hot air in the system was being lost in the corridor ceiling rather going to classrooms.
The contractor responsible will be asked to repair the system between semesters when it can be shut down entirely for a few days. Leaks also were reported in tanks, affecting air pressure, on the check valve in the water intake system and education.

'Cleopatra' Just Makes Movie Critics' Poll

Reviewers Ignore Both Stars of Film;
Spectacle Mentioned in 3 Categories

BY JINGO

The big film blockbuster of 1963 was all but passed over in the Film Daily poll of critics and reviewers. "Cleopatra" placed in only three categories with neither Burton nor Taylor mentioned. Rex Harrison, who played Caesar in the big spectacle, was named the third best male performer. Roddy McDowall, Octavian in the show, placed third in the best supporting actor class and the news media reviewers placed "Cleopatra" second in back of 1962's Oscar, "Lawrence of Arabia," for its photography.

This is only one of many polls and need not have any bearing on the Oscar awards, since the latter are made by members of the film industry and hence could be chosen under considerable pressure.

The top winners according to the newsmen included Paul Newman, best performer — in "Hud;" Shirley MacLaine, best performer — in "Irma La Douce;" Melvyn Douglas, best supporting — in "Hud;" Margaret Rutherford, best supporting — in "The VIP's;" best juveniles, Mary Badham and Phillip Alford, in "To Kill a Mockingbird;" Frank Perry, best director — in "David and Lisa;" and "Hud" as the best screenplay.

The Film Daily poll is based on general circulation. That's why the big guns of the 1962 Oscar race are included.

The newsmen found five "finds of the year," Keir Dullea in "David and Lisa;" Sean Connery in "Dr. No;" Miss Badham in "To Kill a Mockingbird;" and Tippi Hedren and Suzanne Pleshette in "The Birds."

Most of the "finds" have been kept busy since their prize-winning performances.

Keir Dullea, a TV regular "discovered" by Perry for his shoeing film, has been working on "Mail Order Bride" which co-stars "The Beverly Hills Cop" Buddy Ebsen. At first glance, it would seem Keir has tumbled artistically.

Sean Connery is said to be under consideration for more action roles in the films. It isn't too surprising. James Bond, the role Sean had for his "discovery," would leave a lasting impression.

In "Marni" Miss Hedren, a surprising choice considering the less than rave notices she received in many organs for her part of "The Birds," is continuing on Alfred Hitchcock's Kelly-izing path. The master of the suspense film believes "Tippi" can be Grace Kelly's successor. So she is laboring in "Marni," a role which Alfred nearly got Princess Grace to use for a comeback.

Miss Pleshette, one of the typical "discoveries" who has been working hard at her craft for many years before lightning struck, has been in the news recently for becoming the bride of Troy Donahue.

Miss Badham, one of the "amateurs" who gave credence to the Oscar winner last year, apparently has returned to school.

Made a Name Perry carved a big swath for himself in the film world with his tender "David and Lisa" and has been caught up in the big money productions.

However, his first "Big" film, "Ladybird, Ladybird," a story about the effect of Civil Defense drills on youngsters, hasn't come up to his "David" standards. Currently he's working on a production with a seven figure budget.

Clinical Progress Report: Longer Lasting Medication for Painless Home Treatment of Hemorrhoids

M.P.O. combines fast-acting ingredients in a prescription-type formula to relieve pain and itch—shrink piles. Doctors have reported "We are quite pleased with the results." In recent clinical tests of Mentholum M.P.O., results were good to excellent for 25 out of 30 patients.

Relief starts in seconds—M.P.O. contains more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients than the leading hemorrhoid preparation. And M.P.O. is homogenized for faster absorption of its relieving medication. The instant you apply M.P.O., its anesthetic (Benzocaine) and vasoconstrictor (Epinephrine Sulfate) start to work.

M.P.O. is available in stainless ointment or suppository form.

Boone Tries To Collect Some Debts

BY TV SCOUT

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — "The Hooligan" on The Richard Boone Show, is a rowdy, lusty, comic battle of the sexes between Boone, a man trying to collect some debts owed him to save his ranch, and Jeanette Nolan, a genteel widow still mourning her husband months after his death.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Combat takes one of its favorite characters — the man out of time — and turns him into a moving figure in the person of John Dehner. He portrays a French General of World War I vintage who won't face the fact that Saunders (Vic Morrow) can get on without him.

6-30-7-30 (Channel 4-5) — Any teen-agers contemplating dropping out of school are advised to watch Mr. Novak's powerful look at a dropout a few years later. Richard Evans makes this fellow a tragic figure, neither kid nor adult, not suited for any job, and rejected by the Army.

7-30-8 (Channel 11) — The more familiar the characters become on McHale's Navy, the funnier they get. Binghamton (Joe Flynn) gets a long-awaited transfer, but one small thing delays his departure: a gigantic inventory shortage. So Binghamton enlists McHale's (Ernest Borgnine) help and they track the missing items to Urulu (Jacques Aubuchon), who has a surplus discount store and is selling them to the enemy.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Knives, flash and passions and tempers take turns flaring as The Great-est Show on Earth examines a Corsican knife-throwing act in which the old man is getting so shaky, tossing them at his daughter-in-law, that Jack Palance talks wandering son-and-husband Steven Hill into coming back.

8-30-9 (Channel 2) — Peter Paul and Mary provide some bright moments on The Jack Benny Program.

9-10 (Channel 11) — The Fugitive has the faculty few shows have. They can take a routine story and make it absorbing through good writing and acting.

9-10 (Channel 2) — Some bright skits provide The Garry Moore Show with a few funny moments: there's a Beverly Hills billies gag, Dorothy Loudon and Bernie West talking like the blubs on paperback books, and Dorothy as a telephone answering service girl who suits her accents to her clients.

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — Jane Wyman introduces "Young stars into whose hands the future of the musical arts is already passing" on Bell Telephone Hour. There is Jack Jones singing; Susan Starr playing the final movement of Mendelssohn's Piano Concerto; Susan Watson doing "Pick Yourself Up;" Viollette Verdy and Edward Villella dancing the Balanchine choreography for a Pas de Deux from Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake;" Canadian folk singers Ian and Sylvia; Metropolitan Opera stars Judith Raskin and William Walker. The Ailing House Making Louvers Adequate

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I have just insulated my ceiling with loose fill fiberglass, four inches thick, and have covered 475 square feet. I have one louver in each gable, amounting to 215 square inches free area. Is this enough? Must I keep the louvers open in cold weather, as the wind blows very hard on the attic?

A: I hope you put down a vaporproof barrier, before putting in the loose fill insulation. Gable louvers should have a total open area of 1 square inch for each 300 square inches of attic area — so yours just about makes it a little on the "skinny side." Louvers should be kept open all year round, however, on very windy days, keeping them closed for a short spell does no harm. Of course, this assumes you have closures or hinged louvers, which most houses don't have.

Q: I have an old dining room set on which the finish isn't good. It is so dark in some places it is almost black. I don't have time to remove the finish because there is so much carving, and there are seven pieces. Is there some liquid cleaner that would lighten this finish so it could be steel-wooled, then a clear finish put over it?

A: The almost-black areas may be due to an accumulation of soil and grime. Try wiping the surface with thick suds of a mild soap, then remove the loosened grime with clean cloths dampened with clear water, followed by rubbing with clean, dry cheesecloth. This may well be all that's needed to lighten the surface. I know of no liquid cleaner such as you want, sorry to say. A liquid paint remover (and steel wool) can be used to remove the present finish, following label directions carefully. Then apply the desired new finish.

Q: The bottoms of my porcelain bathtub and sink are rough, dull and hard to clean. Is there any way I can refinish this?

A: An epoxy tub and tile finish, in a variety of colors, is now available at some hardware dealers. Carefully applied, according to manufacturer's instructions on the container, this dries to a hard porcelain-like, nonporous finish with a high luster. It is soap and detergent-proof.

'Pro' Sportswear

The physical fitness trend has opened the feminine eye to the fashion zing in active sportswear. The "ski look," for instance, is coming on strong.

And why not? Ski clothes are superb for winter walks, picnics and just plain lounging. Made of stretch fabrics and elasticized at the waist, ski pants tauten the figure, stay put, and sit easy, wherever you choose to wear them.

Quilted - stretch parkas and jackets provide freedom of movement and feel weightless, while pampering the external movement and the internal thermostat. For sheer dazzle, fabrics are brightly colored or gayly printed with hot-house flower patterns. Along with the clothes, there's a sream upswing among non-skiers for ski accessories — sunglasses in particular. Again, why not? The curved-lens specs that most skiers wear certainly look terrific. What's more they are!

Our own handsome Olympic Team wears just such spectacular.

Mother Wants to Convince 5-Year-Old She Loves Him

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: We have a crazy rat-race I need help getting out of. Whenever I scold my 5-year-old son for doing something naughty, he says I'm crabby and I don't like him. Then he stamps upstairs to pack a suitcase and leave. I tell him to stop this nonsense immediately and he always does, but not without more screaming at me that I hate him. How can I convince him I love him?

MRS. L. C. Tell him and show him. And next time you're scolding him, point out that you don't want him to be naughty and that's why you're crabby and he knows it. So if he doesn't like to have you angry at him, all he needs to do is be good. Remind him that he can't run away from the whole world and no one will ever like his naughty behavior.

P. S.: Put the suitcases away on a high shelf before he wears them out.

Dear Dr. Jones: Our 20-month-old boy is happy, healthy, and normal in every way for his age, except for eating. He has all his teeth, but refuses to use them. He won't chew. He spits out everything except strained baby food.

His appetite is good and he luges just about everything he is fed. Can it be that he's just lazy or not ready to change over to solids? He doesn't feed himself, by the way, because he just fingerprints with the food on the high chair tray when I let him spoon it out of the dish himself.

MRS. B. L. Make up your mind to two ideas:

(1) Your boy's old enough to feed himself and to eat foods that require biting and chewing.

(2) He's healthy enough to do both of these if you'll only give his appetite and hunger a chance to lead him.

For the next week, put his baby foods in front of him, give him his spoon, and let him eat as much as he wants. Take the tray away if he plays with the food or refuses to feed himself. Don't scold or try to talk him into eating more. But don't let him have any snacks between meals, either.

By the end of the week, he'll probably be feeding himself a reasonably well-balanced meal. Then start substituting the grownup version for the strained version of his favorite foods, one at a meal. In a few weeks, he ought to be finished with baby foods completely.

To receive a copy of Dr. Jones' pamphlet, "To Spank or Not to Spank," send 15 cents Mary Sue Miller in care of this and a stamped, self-addressed newspaper, enclosing 10 cents in envelope to Dr. Eve Jones, care of this newspaper.

lars. But not only for a chic appearance. Of necessity, their sun specs eliminate the dangers of distortion, glare, fogging, and shattered lenses.

And there's an instance, if ever was, of the truth that beauty and function must mate. Lacking either element, any fashion flops.

Now for a special beauty-fashion caution: Do protect your skin from the depredations of indoor heat, from outdoor cold or damp, with a protective treatment.

Packaged Insurance Good Buy

No one is rich enough to afford all the insurance coverage wanted. But few can afford not to have coverage for occurrences which can cause major setbacks or wipe a person out financially.

To get protection for your property there are many kinds of insurance available. At the present time you can buy many insurances in a package or separately.

You can buy fire and casualty insurance to protect yourself from losses from damage of destruction of property, both real or personal. Fire insurance will pay you for the value of the property up to the limits of the policy.

Extended Coverage. You can get an extended coverage endorsement to your fire policy that covers such things as explosions, windstorms, hail or smoke. You can buy additional extended coverage for protection against vandalism, building collapse, falling trees or glass breakage. Other types of insurance provide coverage for living costs while your home is fixed up again for reoccupancy, or for additional living expenses.

It's a good idea to protect yourself from losses that result from lawsuits if other people are injured by or on your property. You can purchase comprehensive personal liability insurance. This covers liability for bodily injury or property damage coming from injury caused by an animal or by personal acts you or members of your family do.

Package Policies. Consider package policies for any of these types of insurance if you want more coverage for the premiums. They cost less than individual policies and include all property and liability insurance needs.

Read policies carefully and know what protection each offers. If you don't understand a classification, ask your agent to explain it. Check to be sure you have enough coverage. And, make an inventory of the goods covered.

Expected Peace Mood of 1964 Not Realized

Communism Is on Upgrade With Help For Economic Base

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Just a few weeks ago it was being predicted that 1964 would be a year of "peace" — because the Soviet Union was in economic trouble, because Castro's Cuba was slowly "disintegrating" and because Latin American problems were soon going to be solved by the "Alliance for Progress." Indeed, it was widely assumed that Communism was on the downgrade and that the world could look forward to an era of readjustment.

But the mood of "euphoria"—a word that emerged in the Pentagon vocabulary—has come to a sudden end.

1. Communist China has broken the truce and shelled Quemoy City and the Quemoy Islands.

2. Fidel Castro has gone to Moscow by invitation and has received the usual bear hug from Premier Khrushchev.

3. Zanzibar, one of the new "independent" states off the African east coast, has been abruptly converted into a pro-Communist state by a revolution.

4. Ghana, in West Africa, another one of the ex-colonial states, has abolished the two-party system, as the president has assumed the power to remove supreme court justices at will and imitated the totalitarianism of the Communists.

5. Troubles in Vietnam, Malaysia and Indonesia have been intensified by the Communists.

6. Any thought that Red China and the Soviet Union are at the parting of the ways seems to have been dispelled by the display by Moscow and Peking in denouncing the United States as an aggressor in the Canal Zone. Communist China, in unison with the Soviet Union, has pledged full support of the Panamanians. The newspapers of Communist North Korea have echoed the same line.

In the United States, United Press International reported last Sunday that the New York State Communist Party had called for a dissolution of the 1903 treaty between the United States and Panama.

Just what goes on behind the Iron Curtain is not too clear to the highest officials in Washington. For Premier Castro's trip to Moscow caught officials here and in other western capitals by surprise. There is frank admission that Fidel Castro's influence extends beyond Cuba into other parts of Latin America.

Rusk Statement
Dean Rusk, U. S. Secretary of State, in a television interview last Sunday on ABC called "Issues and Answers," declared that Castro and his agents have been taking "a direct hand in this (the Panama situation) one way or another," and added that "he had some responsibility for this."

There seems no doubt that the student movements in many countries are directed, if not financed, by the Communist regime in Moscow through Castro. It is significant how many demonstrations occur simultaneously in various Latin American capitals whenever an event develops in which opposition to the United States can be expressed.

Meanwhile, Cuba is arranging for large shipments of machinery and other necessities from western European countries.

Dean Rusk said on this point: "Castro himself has made it clear both in words and in action that he has designs to step up the terrorism and threats against his neighbors in this hemisphere. Now, we think that we—not only think but hope that our friends abroad will take into account the attitude of all the countries of this hemisphere toward this particular threat aimed at people here in this part of the world, and that anything which seems to shore up the economy of Cuba, other than the basic humanitarian materials of, say, foodstuffs and medicine, increases Castro's capability to cause trouble for his neighbors."

The whole Panamanian trouble doubtless will be settled peacefully. But, as a propaganda project, it will be paying dividends to the Communists for a long time to come.

The flag episode itself is not important, but the memories of bitterness in the past which it reawakened cannot but have a damaging effect on U.S. relations with Central and South American countries in the immediate future.

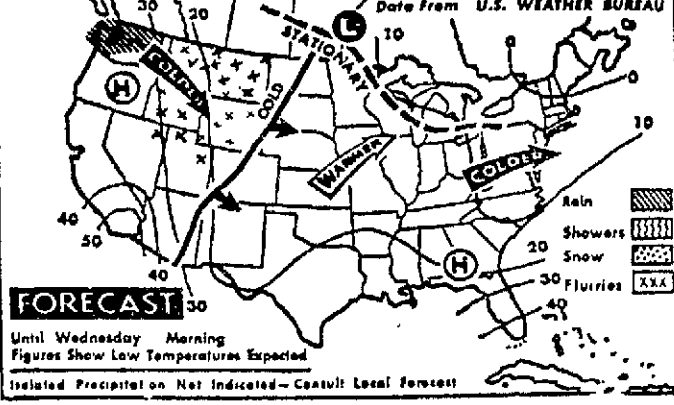

The history of the establishment of Panama has been all but forgotten in this country, but not in Latin America. The United States, for economic and military purposes, needed a canal between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. The voyage around the southern tip of South America was too long, for naval ship movements as well as for commercial shipping. Several French groups had failed to build a canal through Colombia before 1900. The United States bought their rights and offered Colombia compensation for a canal zone.

Colombia refused to ratify the treaty in October 1903, and a month later a province in northern Colombia revolted. When it was successful in seizing a strip of territory, President Theodore Roosevelt immediately extended recognition and made an agreement with the new Panama Republic to allow the canal to be built. It wasn't until 1921 that the United States paid an indemnity of $25 million to Colombia and formally "expressed regret" over the unfortunate episode.

Events of the last several days have accentuated the tensions that can suddenly arise and particularly have demonstrated how the insidious hand of Moscow moves throughout the world to cause trouble, even as western countries are unwise in assisting the Soviet economic system to grow stronger and produce more and more armaments for the future.

Peace in the world will not come as long as the Russians have a totalitarian government bent upon undermining, through subversive movements, free governments in all parts of the world.

Renk Poses Serious Threat to Proxmire

Appeal to All Segments of GOP Noted by Political Observers

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The candidacy of Wilbur Renk for the Republican nomination for U.S. senator presents Sen. William Proxmire, Democrat, with the most dangerous challenge since he went to Washington in an upset election that marked the most significant reversal of the Wisconsin Republican party in years.

The estimate is shared by political organization leaders of both parties, professional observers, and Sen. Proxmire.

Proxmire won a decisive victory in the special election of 1957 which followed the death of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. He defeated Walter J. Kohler, who had the prestige of three successful terms as governor, by a margin of more than 100,000 votes, a spectacular triumph in a special election with a comparatively low vote. The next year, as a candidate for a full six-year term, he bowed over Roland Steinle, a former judge of the State Supreme Court, even more impressively.

Renk's Value
Renk's value to the Republican ticket, as most students of Wisconsin voting behavior see it, is he will be able to depend on the Republican regulars, while making an appeal to independents and moderates at the same time.

Proxmire and the Democrats have made no secret of the fact they worried more about a Renk candidacy than any other man the Republicans were likely to put up. Last week Patrick Lucy, realistic former chairman of the state Democratic organization, warned the organization politicians of Dane County, long a citadel of Democratic party loyalty and strength, Renk's local vote appeal would be such a local Democratic loss, including courthouse officials, would be required to make special campaign efforts this year.

Renk's posture of independence, ironically enough, derives largely from his aggressive although losing campaign in defiance of the Republican organization two years ago for the

5 Treasurer Candidates

Post Proves to Be Most Popular in Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — The office of city treasurer may be the most popular in the spring election.

A fifth potential candidate, Louis Lewis, 609 Gertrude St., took out nomination papers for the post Monday.

Lewis, married and the father of five children, is desk clerk at the Conway Hotel, Appleton. He is making his first try for public office. He will be opposed by four women, including three housewives and Miss Ruth Wolf, incumbent, who seeks an eighth term.

School Board
Allen Rademacher, a farmer from Dundas, route 3, Kaukauna, has begun circulating nomination papers for the office of school commissioner. Married and the father of six children, he is the first school district candidate from outside the corporate limits of Kaukauna. He is making his first try for a public office. One of the two incumbents to be re-elected, Dr. George Behnke, took out papers earlier.

A three-way race developed for second ward alderman when Edward Oliva, 715 Grignon St., took out nomination papers. He previously served one term as alderman. Married and the father of five children, he is employed at Gustman Chevrolet Sales. He will be opposed by incumbent Earl Luedtke and Harold Gast.

Filing papers were Mrs. Lester Pitt and Miss Wolf, treasurer candidates; Clifford Fernal, assessor candidate; Clayton Van Dyke, fourth ward supervisor candidate; Jerome Truymann, fourth ward alderman candidate, and James McDaniel, third ward alderman candidate.

Chamber Dues Increased $15

Kaukauna Group To Pay $40 Annual Membership Levy

KAUKAUNA — The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce has voted to increase membership dues from $25 to $40 per year effective in 1964 with dues payable quarterly.

The move was taken as a result of increased chamber activities, maintaining a full-time executive secretary, office and purchase of additional equipment. The membership drive will be Jan. 27 and 28 with a special team under the direction of Joseph Walsh staging a major effort to get new members.

Co-chairmen of the retail promotion fund group, Michael Gerharz and J. J. Martens said, dues for membership in the promotion fund would be reduced from $40 to $20 for 1964. The reduction was made because the holiday auction provided the money needed for the Christmas season, they said.

The co-chairmen said a membership of 50 in the promotion group would allow maintaining the lower membership fee rate.

Ford Wins Motor Trend's "Car of the Year" Award

January 8: Motor Trend magazine's "Car of the Year" Award goes to an engineering breakthrough! It honors all the '64s from Ford "For engineering advancement in the concept of Total Performance, proven in open competition."

Thunderbird, Falcon, Super Torque Ford, Fairlane (reading counterclockwise) winners of Motor Trend's Car of the Year Award

That's Total Performance!

SEE THE 1964 TOTAL PERFORMANCE CARS AT YOUR FORD DEALER'S

Here's what the Motor Trend Award means to you...

The editors of Motor Trend, America's largest general automotive magazine, watched Ford's total performance in open competition... saw competition-modified Fords win every 500-mile stock car race in the last year, saw Ford-built engines end an era at Indianapolis and sweep the sports car circuits.

Then they drove the 1964 Ford's, Falcons, Fairlanes and Thunderbirds and discovered how the lessons of open competition have helped breed into a new kind of total performance for the open road, for your kind of driving. And then they made their award!

The "Car of the Year" Award is an impressive testimonial, but see for yourself—take the wheel of a '64 from Ford. These cars speak for themselves with their ease of handling in a supermarket parking lot or their greater stability on a rain-slick blacktop.

Before you buy any new car this year, test-drive total performance in a solid, silent Super Torque Ford, now hundreds of pounds more car than anything in its field. Try America's only total performance compact, the Falcon V-8, totally new, totally changed. Or, any of the 64 Cars of the Year from Ford!

Supervisors Fail to Act On Pay Plan

7 Per Cent Hike
Would be Based on Salaries of 1958

No action was taken by the Outagamie County Board Tuesday morning on a resolution providing "cost of living salary increases" for 19 courthouse employees.

A resolution by the county personnel (appeals) committee stated that the group flatly denied an across-the-board 10 per cent salary increase asked for the Courthouse Employees Association.

Instead, the committee recommended that since the cost of living has increased 7 per cent since 1958, salaries should have been increased by at least that much.

All employees would get raises to bring their increases up to the 7 per cent mark, based on 1958 salaries. Those whose increases total more or who already have reached that mark, will get none.

Supv. Glenn Pelton (Appleton, 12th), personnel committee chairman, said the raises would cost the county $1,000 for the year. He proposed that $1,000 be transferred from the contingency fund to provide for the increases which range between $1 and $7 a month.

No action had been taken on the proposal when the board adjourned at noon.

3 Injured in Chain-Type Car Crashes

Two line-of-traffic accidents involving six cars resulted in minor injuries to three people Monday, Appleton police said.

A car driven at Oneida and Pacific streets by Stephan Foster, 31, 1106 W. Grant St., was stopped in a line of traffic when it was struck by one driven by Sarto Balliet, 60, 116 E. Franklin St.

Police said the Balliet car backed away from the Foster car and was then struck by a car driven by John M. Plach Jr., 23, 1137 E. Depot St., Little Chute. The Balliet car was then pushed once again into the rear of the Foster car.

Poster complained of minor neck injuries and was to consult a family doctor. Plach received bruises to his leg.

Cars driven by Kenneth E. Whitman, 43, 430 E. Lincoln St., and Andrew A. Mettner, 42, 538 E. Harding Ave., collided on the Oneida Street bridge about 8 a. m. when the Mettner car was struck in the rear by a car driven by Sumner N. Richman, 34, 1625 Ravinia Place.

Miss Shirley A. Mettner, 16, 538 E. Harding Ave., received minor injuries and was asked to consult a doctor.

Court Restrains Oshkosh Man From Practicing Architecture

An injunction was entered in Dane County Circuit Court Monday restraining Richard C. Thorn, of 6449 W. Decorah St., Oshkosh, from practicing architecture or professional engineering in Wisconsin.

The action was brought by the Wisconsin Registration Board of Architects and Professional Engineers since Thorn is not registered with that board as either an architect or professional engineer.

The court found the defendant entered into contracts in which he offered to perform architectural and engineering services, and did actually perform such services contrary to the provisions of the Wisconsin registration law.

The court also found the defendant used various titles and descriptions which tended to convey the impression he was authorized to practice architecture and professional engineering.

Early American Bottle Collection Displayed At Appleton Library

A collection of early American flasks and bottles from the Bergstrom Art Center is on display at the Appleton Public Library.

The exhibit will be on display in the first floor display case until early February, when it will be replaced with a display of either sandwich glass or paperweights.

National emblems, designs, inscriptions and important personages linked with American history are depicted on flasks and bottles.

The glass industry gained prominence after the War of 1812. Because competition was keen, important events and persons were depicted in flask form in order to attract buyers. Some flasks also depicted presidential candidates and were used then as campaign buttons as party badges are used today.

Robert DeBruin, 18, today was named boy of the month by the Appleton Breakfast Optimist Club. At left are the youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl DeBruin, 1121 N. Union St. At right is Jerry Depies, boy of the month chairman. A student at Xavier High School, DeBruin is an honor student, a basketball star, active in various other school activities and a Post-Crescent newspaper carrier. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Full-Scale Talks on Federal Aid Brewing In Board of Education

Appleton Public Schools Could Get $112,000 if Policy Reversed

A full-scale discussion of the present for the discussion. Two touchy question of federal aid members were absent Monday.

The question was placed on the agenda for the next regular meeting Jan. 27. If it is not possible to get a full board for that meeting, the discussion will be taken up later, said Mrs. George Munro, board president.

"I think this is an appropriate time to change the policy on not taking NDEA funds," Buchanan said after presenting estimated costs of science facilities needed over the next three to five years.

Cover Cost
He estimated NDEA reimbursements would cover about $30,000 of the $80,400 cost of remodeling and adding science facilities at the four present junior and senior high schools, about $55,000 for science facilities at the proposed southeast senior high school and about $27,500 for science, modern foreign language and mathematics equipment at Einstein Junior High School.

Issue Arose
The board several years ago adopted a policy to not accept federal funds for any purpose. The issue arose again at a Dec. 29 meeting when Buchanan urged the board to re-evaluate its opposition to federal aid and to accept National Defense Education Act (NDEA) funds for Einstein Junior High School.

The board Monday decided it must reconsider the entire policy, not merely the question of NDEA funds for Einstein School, and the full board should be

Sewer Construction to Affect Traffic at College and State

Motorists will be channeled into one lane traffic or on possible detour routes around sewer construction slated to begin Monday at College Avenue and State Street.

The Milwaukee firm constructing the sewer tunnel which runs from the Fox River to a point about one block north of College Avenue will begin construction of a "work" hole at the intersection Monday.

Police said men, equipment and the size of the hole itself will make two lane traffic east and west impossible, and it may be necessary to shut off north and south traffic on State Street.

If the "work" hole is dug at the center of the intersection, police said that traffic from all directions will be funneled into one lane around the construction site.

However, construction officials said it may be necessary to dig the hole "north of the centerline" in the intersection, forcing north and south traffic to detour to other streets.

Construction work will be in progress 24 hours a day for approximately six weeks.

More Expenditures Planned

Appleton Wire Works Records Its Greatest Capital Improvements

Capital expenditures by Appleton Wire Works Corporation in 1963 were greater than in any previous year of the company's history. W. E. Buchanan, president, announced today. Ground was broken last week for a two-story building containing 22,680 sq. ft. of floor space to house research laboratories and general offices. This marked the first step in 1964's capital expenditures program which will more than double the company's 1963 output.

"These large-scale projects are intended primarily to improve quality of our products and reduce our costs, rather than for any major increase in plant capacity," Buchanan stated. "We are plowing back substantial sums into new facilities for the purpose of assuring the continuity of our business. In the highly competitive economic marketplace, survival cannot be taken for granted by any manufacturer who merely stands pat on the products and performance on which his success was established. New research-and-development type job opportunities for qualified personnel will open up when the Products Development Center goes into active service later this year," Buchanan forecast. "There will be further jobs created by expansion in our chrome-plating operation and in other departments. All this fits squarely into our company's basic philosophy of community service through industrial growth."

Buchanan pointed to the fact that the laboratory and general offices will be under one roof, and also to the building's local philosophy of community service through industrial growth. The structure is placed adjacent to the brand-new Production Development Center in plant at Montgomery, Ala., has which equipment is currently gone to a seven-day work week, being installed, and also it abuts thereby following the practice the recently modernized building of paper mills in the South. This where Fourdrinier wires are move is adding 25 per cent more people to the payroll there, and increases the plant's capacity sufficiently to yield new production units already are in operation that is needed for adequate service to the paper industry.

General contractor for the new Appleton laboratory-office building is P. G. Miron Construction Company, Inc.

Street Plan at School Site to Be Prepared

The city engineering division will prepare a street layout to the proposed Einstein Junior High school site in the near future.

When the council's street-sanitation committee met Monday, it received deeds for property from Percy Menning for half of Durkee and Florida Streets extended.

As part of the site purchase agreement with Menning, the city was to receive property from him for street purposes.

The board of education decided the land for the other half of the streets to the city. Public Works Director Robert W. Bues explained that before street layouts can be completed, the city must obtain a small parcel of property from Forest Dairies.

By state law, street layouts must be in before school construction can start.

Barring unforeseen legal complications over bids, construction of Einstein school should start in the spring with the building completed in 1965.

In other action, the committee directed the department of public works to purchase a new snow blower, front end loader and sedan as per the 1964 budget.

Kaukauna Woman Hurt In Two-Car Accident On County Trunk N

One person was injured and taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital after a two car accident on County Trunk N about 8:30 a.m. today.

Miss Ann Van Camp, 21, route 1, Kaukauna, received back and internal injuries when her car was involved in a collision with a car driven by Ben L. Sweet, 48, 18 Sherman Place, Madison. Sweet was not injured.

County police said the Van Camp car was going south on N. and the Sweet car was going north. Sweet was attempting a left turn when the accident occurred.

Education Board to Face Court Test Over Plumbing Bid

Second Lowest Firm Charges
'Illegal Bidding Procedures'

Appleton Board of Education faces a court test over the plumbing contract for Einstein Junior High School.

The board Monday awarded the plumbing contract to Wenzel Brothers Inc., Menasha, who had submitted a low bid of $87,800.

Carleton E. Selig, secretary-treasurer of R. Selig and Sons, Inc., Appleton, said today his firm will make a test case of the contract because "illegal bidding procedures" were followed.

Selig, whose firm submitted the second lowest bid of $88,855, had previously protested bidding procedure and asked for a complete review. The board sought the opinion of the city attorney before awarding the contract to Wenzel.

Effect Unclear

It was unclear whether the possible court action would mean a further delay for the proposed school, already a year behind schedule. The board has requested a bond issue of $1,870,000 from the city council, and construction is to start this spring. The school is scheduled to open in the fall of 1965.

City Attorney Frederick Froehlich said today he did not think test would delay progress on the school. Selig probably would be required to put up a bond to cover expenses, pending outcome of any court action, he said.

School Director of Business Affairs William Knuth said he did not know the legal technicalities, but did not think this action would hold up the bond issue. If Selig made a test case of the contract and won, the additional amount could be taken from the contingency fund, he said. Selig's bid was $1,055 more than Wenzel's.

Bidding Question
The question over bidding procedures arose because Wenzel Brothers failed to include the required bid bond in the plumbing bid at the bid opening Dec. 10. The school board permitted

County Agent Given

Studies at UW

Outagamie County Agent Jack Powers was granted a leave of absence by the county board today so that he can complete studies toward his master's degree at the University of Wisconsin.

The board approved an agriculture committee resolution which allows Powers to collect his full salary between Feb. 15 to June 1 while he conducts his studies at Madison.

However, the resolution stipulates the university must provide a replacement for Powers at the university's expense.

Youths Playing With Candles Ignite Fire

Two small children playing with candles were responsible for fire damage to furniture in an apartment at 316 1/2 W. Commercial St., the home of Mrs. Barbara Smith, Monday.

Appleton Fire Department authorities said Mark Smith, 7, took a candle from a storage area and gave it to his brother, Steve, 4, who lit it and rolled it under a chair. Burned was the bottom and padding of the chair.

The letter said, "It is the unanimous hope of Republicans in Wisconsin that we can convert the problems raised by the nature of Wisconsin's presidential primary into a unifying, rather than a divisive, force."

"In keeping with this hope, we have adopted the Wisconsin 1964 Victory Plan which has as its initial step, the entry and election of an uncommitted and uncontested slate of delegates in the Wisconsin primary headed by Rep. John W. Byrnes as son."

Peterson said in the letter that "our plan is not intended to be made by Byrnes"

A closed school day with most pupils, more than half the 672 students remaining for lunch was approved by the board of education Monday.

The new plan, requested to help solve supervision, discipline and safety problems, will go into effect at the start of second semester, Jan. 29.

The board learned a similar plan may be needed at Appleton Senior High School next year because of enrollment pressures.

The new schedule will include three staggered 20 or 25 minute lunch periods and provide a 20-minute activity period over the noon hour. Pupils will be dismissed at about 3:20 p.m., earlier than the present 3:36 p.m. The lunch period now runs from 11:45 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Pupils who live in the immediate area of the school will be given the option of going home for lunch, but others will be required to remain at school. Lunch periods will begin about 11 a.m.

James Murphy, Madison principal, presented the plan to the school board. He said about 350

Little Chute Man Files Bankruptcy Petition

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Henry G. Kuhn of Little Chute, Outagamie County filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition in U.S. District Court Monday, listing debts of $39,421 and assets of $1,000. Kuhn had operated the wrecking firm of Kuhn Enterprises since 1953.

The firm had been located in the Town of Buchanan. It went out of business nearly two years ago.

GOP Gives Primary Plans to Candidates

Favorite Son Victory Strategy
Told Eight Potential Nominees

Letters have been sent to prevent any candidate from entering our primary. Should any candidate deem it necessary to come into Wisconsin, we would not pursue our plan further and would expect other candidates also would enter our primary.

Asks Replies
In the letter, Peterson asked for replies by Feb. 1.

The plan said "Wisconsin's primary law, with its early filing date and consent requirement, rarely, if ever, insures voters a choice between all leading contenders."

"Since the Democrats undoubtedly will have no contest in 1964, there is a strong possibility Democratic votes in a Republican contest would unduly effect the results — producing disharmony among Republican volunteers and damaging the party's ability to campaign effectively in support of Republican nominees for local, state and national offices in the general election."

Delegates Plans
Peterson also said the slate of delegates will not include individuals with a prior commitment to any other candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

"Selection," he said, "will not be made to achieve balance between delegates committed to candidates other than the favorite son. Delegates will explicitly indicate, in advance, their sole commitment is to the favorite son."

Final selection of the delegates, Peterson said, will be made by Byrnes

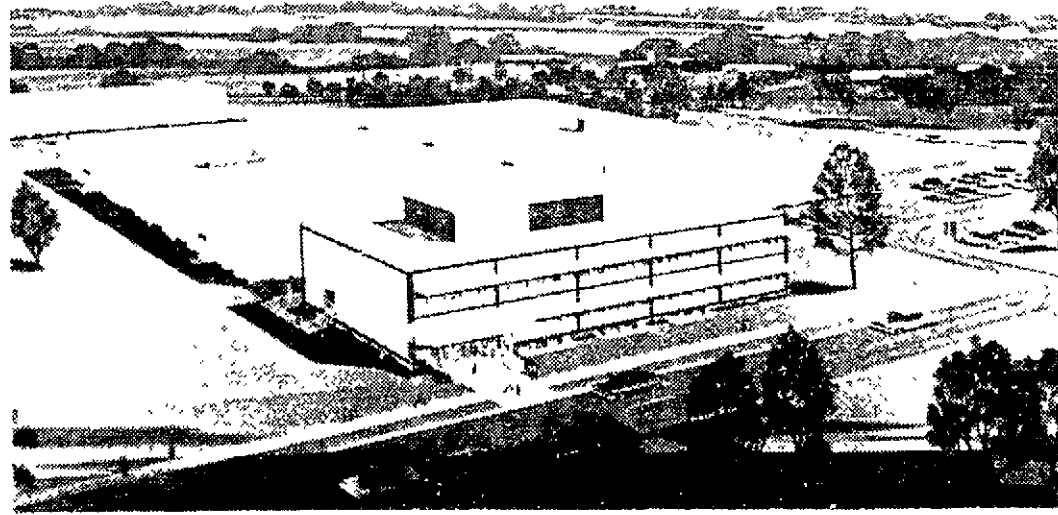

Kimberly Woman Hurts Shoulder In 3-Car Mishap

KAUKAUNA — Miss Margaret Verbeten, 19, 808 E. Kimberly Ave., Kimberly, complained of pains in the right shoulder as a result of a 3-car accident about 9 a.m. Monday.

According to police, a car driven by Roman N. Foegen, 68, 1604 Kenneth Ave., Kaukauna, was traveling north on La w e street when Miss Verbeten pulled from a stop sign on Doty street and collided with the Foegen vehicle. The Verbeten car spun into the left lane of traffic and hit the rear end of a car driven by Harry Horn, 59, 811 Oviatt St., Kaukauna.

Slippery roads caused two Sunday accidents. At 9:35 a.m., a car driven by William J. Steffen Jr., 41, 1401 Crooks Ave., Kaukauna, was hit in the back end by a car driven by Joan Heinzen, 305 E. Sixteenth St., Kaukauna, as the Steffen vehicle slowed to make a left turn on Crooks Avenue.

At 5:30 p.m. a car driven by Duane Anderson, 26, 413 Whitney St., Kaukauna, slid from an alley between Sixth Street and Whitney Street and collided with a car driven by Dennis Berkers, 16, 120 Green Bay Road, Kaukauna, who was traveling north on Eden Avenue.

Excavation for the Office-Laboratory building of Appleton Wire Works Corporation, in foreground, got under way recently. The modern building is expected to be finished in about a year. Outagamie Okays Deputy Wardens

County Supervisors Vote
27-26 for $500 Fund Transfer

Supervisors on the Outagamie County Board did a turnaround today and decided the county should have deputy conservation wardens.

By a vote of 27 to 26, the board passed a motion by Supv. Eugene Kloes (Appleton 4th) which transfers $500 from the county's contingency to a deputy game warden fund.

At last November's board session the board voted to raise the bounty for killing taxes to $5 and to add $500 to the county's bounty account by deleting $500 from the budget for deputy conservation wardens' salaries.

Albert Vander Bloemen, Hortonville, state conservation warden for the Outagamie County area, appeared before the board today and objected to last November's actions.

"Essential to Enforcement" Vander Bloemen described all the activities of the deputy county wardens and called them "essential to game law enforcement in Outagamie County." He said that arrests made by the county wardens last year provided well over $500 to the county in fines and court costs.

Vander Bloemen also pointed out that about 190 deer were killed by autos in the county last year. He explained that by selling good meat from the deer carcasses salvaged by the wardens, an additional $1,000 was netted.

He told the board he worked an average of 300 hours per month last year, took only two or three days off and no vacation. In addition, Vander Bloemen said, he is three months and $450 "in the red" on expense money.

He compared the warden situation with the police situation. He said counties don't want the state police to take over county police duties, yet Outagamie County wants the state to come in and take over county's conservation law enforcement duties.

Supv. Erwin Conradt (Town of Bovina), author of last November's measure which abolished the four deputy warden positions, said "when you figure that the state takes $150,000 a year out of the county in licenses, what we get back is peanuts."

Conradt also objected to the state buying land in the Town of Bovina for Wolf River public access projects and not returning any of it to the town's tax rolls. He said the state has purchased nearly 1,800 acres along the river. Much of that land is good farm land and can be sold back and placed on the tax roll, Conradt said.

"The town taxpayers must pick up the tax load so everyone can come in and enjoy himself."

'Let The State Pay'

"If that's how the state is going to operate, then the state should be responsible for the deputy wardens, too. Let the state pay the salaries. Why should our taxpayers always foot the bill?"

Vander Bloemen said a lot of businesses in Shiocton would be "starving to death" if it wasn't for fishermen coming into the village and spending money.

Vander Bloemen said the land is being purchased for public use. "People from urban areas who need outdoor areas are paying heavy taxes too."

County Responsibility

Kloes argued that the county has a responsibility in conservation areas. "Don't let the state grow. Let's keep some responsibility on the county level," he said.

After 52 votes were split evenly, 26 for and 26 against Kloes' motion to reinstate the $500 for deputy wardens' salaries, Supv. Alvin Pulcer (Kimberly), county board chairman, cast the deciding "aye" vote.

Later the board voted to draft a letter to the conservation department asking that usable farm land owned by the state along the river be sold at public auction so that as much land as possible could be returned to the town's tax rolls.

Union Letter Irks Appleton Officials

Personnel Committee Members Deny City Halted Negotiations With Teamsters

A group of city officials took issue Monday night with allegations by Teamsters Local 563 that city-union contract negotiations had been broken off.

The city council's personnel committee received a letter from Robert Schlieve, the local's secretary-treasurer, who enclosed a copy of a petition filed with the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board (WERB) asking for fact-finding.

In his letter, Schlieve said the union, representing about 100 employees in the department of public works, had rejected the city's 1964 contract offer, which failed to include an across-the-board raise.

Schlieve said the union decided to petition for a hearing to determine if fact-finding is warranted under the Municipal Employee Act.

Schlieve said in lieu of fact-finding the union would request mediation, if the city concurs.

Schlieve said the union wants the city to resume collective bargaining with a mediator so a satisfactory settlement might be reached.

The committee never broke off bargaining with the union, said Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings (7th). "At our last joint session we asked Mr. Schlieve to let us know what the union decided."

Other Action
The committee also:
—Reaffirmed its recommendation that E. W. Grover, city recreation director, receive a one-step merit increase instead of two as requested by himself and some aldermen in his behalf.

—Said while about 180 of the city's 300 municipal employees recently were granted merit hikes, none were given two-step increases.

—Adopted a policy that the city's executive, administrative and professional employees not be eligible for overtime pay.

Eleven Appleton Candidates File Election Papers

The latest to file:
Ald. R. P. Groh (8th), veteran council member, who will be seeking another two-year term. Groh, an insurance salesman, resides at 819 W. Third St.

Theodore A. Jens, 1605 N. Superior St., running for re-election as 16th Ward supervisor. Jens is retired.

To be filled at the spring election are 12 council positions, 10 county supervisor posts and two seats on the board of education.

Neenah YGOP Starts Drive For Members

NEENAH — Neenah's Republican Club has launched a drive to increase its "de facto" membership and line up volunteers for various phases of party work.

Commanding the membership drive is James R. Powers who explained that those joining the Neenah club will be automatic members of the Winnebago County Republican Party.

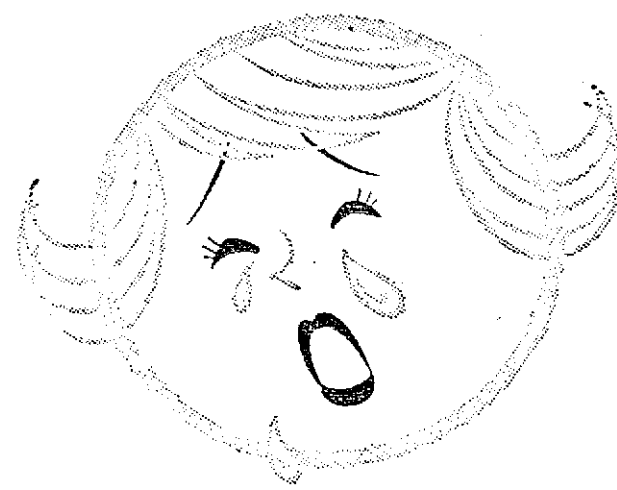

The membership drive was kicked off with a mail campaign to 350 persons. Powers said, "We want as many Republicans as possible in Neenah to be Republicans 'in name' as well as spirit," he said.

"Those who are not contacted by letter may indicate their willingness to participate by sending a postcard to post office box 11, Neenah, with their name and address. Full information will then be sent to them."
In addition a questionnaire has been sent to bona fide members to indicate their willingness to serve in such capacities as clerical, mailing and precinct work, staff headquarters assisting people for alcoholism. Nickl asked the judge if he could get medical help.

Neenah Man Admits Disorderly Conduct

OSHKOSH — Gilbert J. Nickl, 52, 818 Higgins Ave., Neenah, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail by County Judge James Sitter this morning after he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct. He was arrested early today at his home by Neenah Police who said he had had 10 previous similar arrests.
Nickl asked for commitment to Winnebago State Hospital but Judge Sitter replied the state hospital no longer was accepting people for alcoholism. Nickl asked the judge if he could get medical help.

Voice Highlight of Grace Bumbry Concert

BY DON VORPHAL

For several seasons past, the eyes of the musical world have focused on a bright new singer, mezzo-soprano Grace Bumbry, whose artistic exploits have earned headlines in the general area of the sensational.
Last night Miss Bumbry favored us with a professional visit to Lawrence College's Memorial Chapel, and we of these parts are quite ready to affirm that her headlines have been no mere swope of press-agency.

Grace Bumbry has a splendid voice. She has youth, obvious ambition and poise, and while she does not always sing with an understanding and poetic beauty to match the quality of her vocal instrument, she sometimes does, and when those moments occur, she is quite unbeatable.

Voice Large

The voice itself is wonderfully large; it literally filled the big hall, sometimes to ear-splitting intensity. The voice is flexible, both physically and stylistically, so that she can range among the repertoire of opera from several periods, and through the realm of the art song, with relative ease. The voice has range, color and projective ability. It stands, by nature, a superlative instrument.

Beyond this there can remain only the limitations Miss Bumbry's spirit will impose in years to come. Her voice, her flair for the dramatic, if appropriately disciplined, could well carry her to greatness. Some hints of the future may have been given in her program last night.
This was a stock program, nothing fancy nor venturesome. It seemed to challenge one's memory of past programs, and then demanded a comparison, which admittedly is a direct way of advancing one's artistic cause. In the main, we will concede the broad program content came off handsomely enough, most of the excitement was due to the voice itself.

Simple Spiritual
To illustrate, we submit that the night's most compelling moment was provided in the plaintive sounds of a simple spiritual, "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child," where Miss Bumbry's interpretive sorites were minimal, but where the almost breathtaking beauty of her vocal organ held full sway.

We do not mean, however, that interpretive skills were lacking. To the contrary, a program highlight was the Verdi "O Don Fatalo," from "Don Carlos," or again, the Saint-Saens "Mon Coeur," from "Samson and Delilah." Here were dramatic moments to match any artist's.
Outside of the voice itself Miss Bumbry's best quality is her dramatic skill. Indeed, it is in the field of opera that she has found her greatest triumphs, particularly in European theatres.

Knows Movements
In every case Miss Bumbry knew the precise movement, the exact gesture or expression to accompany the sumptuous voice, and in many cases, particularly in the Brahms songs, she found equally effective interpretations.

Certainly no small measure of credit must go to Franz Rupp, her accompanist, whose playing has aided other concert luminaries such as Marian Anderson and Lotte Lehman. Rupp's experience may well be one of Miss Bumbry's biggest assets. Surely his assertive keyboard style is matched to her voice.

Eye 2-Year College In Northern Area

Shawano-Clintonville May Share Campus Directed by Stevens Point

Post-Crescent News Service

SHAWANO — Vital facts involved in deciding whether the Shawano-Clintonville area should make an effort to obtain a 2-year college campus administered from Stevens Point State College will be sought by a joint committee appointed by the mayors of Shawano and Clintonville.

A group of about 20 school and city officials from the area were assigned the responsibility for appointing a fact finding committee to Clintonville Mayor Frank Sinkewicz and Shawano Mayor Emil Juedes following a dinner meeting Monday night at the North-Aire Supper Club at Cloverleaf Lakes.

The group, which included school boards from both cities, the mayors and four reporters, heard an outline of the state's plans for two year colleges around the state from Dr. Robert Dezonio and Joe Semrow. Madison, members of the joint staff of the state coordinating committee for higher education.

College Schedule
Dezonio told the board the committee on education is aiming for two-year colleges in the Beloit-Janesville, Waukesha and Rice Lake areas in the 1965-67 biennium; schools at Clintonville - Shawano, Baraboo and West Bend in 1967-69 and Richland Center, Beaver Dam, Tomah, Lake Geneva, Fond du Lac, Rhinelander and Wisconsin Rapids in 1969-71. The purpose of the area colleges is to alleviate anticipated crowding in established institutions and allow parents who could not otherwise afford to send their children to school to do so because of savings involved when children live at home.

Dezonio told the group he was not trying to sell them on the idea of a college in the Clintonville - Shawano area and decried what he termed the "Chamber of Commerce Approach" to obtaining schools for a certain city or section. He said the needs of the children transcended any desire of civic officials to have a college in their city as a matter of economics and prestige.

All the statistics presented by the state staff were favorable to establishing a college in the area. The group was informed the Shawano-Clintonville area is "educationally deprived" because it was not near centers of higher education.

The lack of an institution of learning beyond the high school level was cited as the reason for only 26.6 per cent of Shawano and 27.2 per cent of Wau-paca County's high school graduates going on to college.

Dezonio envisioned the Shawano-Clintonville school as taking care of about 150 students from Marion, Manawa, Shawano, Shiocton, New London, Jola, Tier-ton, Bowler, Bear Creek, Bond-duel, Waupaca, Weyauwega and Clintonville.

The area schools might eventually compare to California's junior college system, he said. He believes vocational school aspects of the education system will have a larger role in the future.

Madison School Will Have Closed-Day Plan problems with students leaving the school grounds and congregating elsewhere to smoke or cause trouble.

Noon Accidents

Twenty-five per cent of the school's accidents since September have happened during the noon hour, and many have been serious, he said.

From 100 to 150 pupils given free bus transportation home at noon might otherwise have lunch at school, Murphy noted. The closed school day could save up to $5,000 a year in transportation costs, he said.

The short activity period at noon would solve a problem of many class interruptions now for extracurricular activities, the Madison principal said. The earlier dismissal will be an advantage for athletic programs, and will give additional time after school for pupils to seek help from teachers, he said.

Murphy said he believed most parents would like the closed school day. It offers advantages of earlier dismissal and a better school program, he said.

"More Efficient"

"We could run a more efficient operation, and it would release more of my time for educational matters," Murphy said. He said the faculty was in unanimous agreement to accept it on a trial basis.

The board agreed that in addition to easing the situation at Madison, the plan would provide a pilot study for a possible similar program at the senior high school next fall.

Supt. of Schools Royce E. Kurtz said a request for a closed school day at the senior high school next year probably will be presented because of expected enrollment increases.

He predicted "sunrise" classes and late afternoon classes also will be needed next year at the crowded senior high school to handle the expected enrollment.

Bill May Tax

Federal Accounts

WASHINGTON — Banks may be required to pay taxes on government tax and loan accounts if legislation being prepared by Chairman Wright Patman (Dem., Tex.) of the house banking committee is approved.

He said banks enjoy $267 million in subsidies from government deposits which cost them nothing but which can be loaned to the public.

Two Fox Valley banks were listed as holding government funds. They are First National Bank, Neenah, $1,450,421, and First National Bank, Appleton, $1,183,208.

Banks across the nation hold $4,039,938,935 in deposits, Patman said.

Neenah Man Found

Driving, Fined $75

Morgan J. Jorgenson, 39, route 2, Neenah, was fined $75 and costs Monday after he was found guilty of reckless driving. His attorney pleaded no contest. He was found guilty by County Judge Gustave Keller in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Jorgenson was arrested March 14, 1963 and charged with drunken driving. The charge was reduced to reckless driving Monday by City Atty. Fred Froehlich. Jorgenson had requested a six-man jury and the case was to have been tried next week.

Appleton police arrested Jorgenson on Lutz Drive. He was taken to the police station for an examination. He had refused a drunkometer examination.

School Board Talks Brewing On Federal Aid of these things in the future."

Buchanan said.

Someone has got to stop the process of accepting more and more federal aid, objected board member Gregory Schulte, "and I propose the city of Appleton be one of those who reverse that process."

Since NDEA money has been available, most schools in the country have "dramatically improved" their science facilities, and have set new standards for them, probably better than they would have had without this money, Buchanan countered.

"If we are not going to take this money, I think we must pay for it," Buchanan said. "I will advocate we have as adequate teaching facilities in the science areas as comparable schools in Wisconsin."

When the question of remodeling science facilities at the high schools comes up, "people will say we cannot afford it, and there will be pressure put on us to cut back," he said.

"Our representatives have seen fit to make our tax money available for this purpose," Buchanan said. "I don't think we can afford not to bring our facilities up to the standard set."

Board Changes

Board member Dr. Roy Whitney said he is philosophically opposed to federal aid for education, but believed the board must look at the policy again. There have been changes on the board since the policy was adopted, he NDEA aid is available. percentage of the tax income nationally. The board must consider just how far the property tax can go with this changed situation, she said. She urged the decision be reached by the full seven-member board.

Buchanan agreed the matter should be considered by the full board. He said he was trying to give the board additional information on the effect of its decision from a cost standpoint.

Possible Effect

Mrs. Munro raised the question of the possible effect of a change in the policy on the

$1,870,000 bond issue requested from the city council for Einstein Junior High School. Whitney said he believed this is an important enough question to be decided "with some deliberation."

Director of Business Affairs William Knuth said he is waiting for a board decision before ordering certain items of equipment, provided for in the 1964 operating budget, for which

NDEA aid is available. If the board decides to accept the aid, it would affect the operating budget as well as bond issues.

Castro-Like Dress Seen at Zanzibar

Spanish-Speaking Men With Hard Core of African Rebels Who Overthrew Government

BY DENNIS NEEDLE
DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP)—The first U.S. refugees from turbulent Zanzibar reported today that Spanish-speaking men in Castro-like uniforms appeared to be the hard core of African rebels who overthrew the island's Arab government.

The Americans arrived aboard the U.S. destroyer Manley. The state Department had ordered the removal of all but two of the 63 Americans on Zanzibar because bands of Africans were roaming streets, shooting and looting.

Cuban Type
Stuart Lillione, public affairs officer of the U.S. Embassy in Zanzibar, told reporters here that a Cuban-looking type was the leader of the rebels who captured the cable and wireless company's office. He said the man understood English but replied in Spanish and spoke no Swahili, the most common language of Zanzibar.

Firing still was reported in the city of Zanzibar as the Manley pulled out and there were indications that the fighting was more savage than originally indicated when African nationalists seized power Sunday.

The latest casualties reported are six dead and more than 2,000 wounded. But this is expected to grow.

Sheik Abdul Rahman Mohamed Babu, an extreme leftist who was caught in Dar es Salaam when the revolt broke out, returned secretly to Zanzibar to take up his post as foreign minister under the rebel regime.

The State Department in Washington has expressed fear that the Zanzibar revolt will make the old spice island, independent from Britain little more than a stepping stone to communist infiltration in Africa.

Babu has visited the Soviet Union and China and is considered an admirer of Fidel Castro of Cuba.

Zanzibar would be a convenient steppingstone for communism in Africa if that is the design of the new regime. The island lies about 20 miles off the east African coast near the borders of Tanganyika and Kenya.

Situation Unstable
State Department officials in Washington termed the situation on the spice island off the east coast of Africa "very unstable." But they said no Europeans were harmed and their property was not being looted.

Captured police trucks loaded with shouting Africans sped down streets of the island capital. The public was warned by loudspeakers to remain indoors.

New Government
The new government of President Sheikh Abeid Karume sealed off the island nation after the revolt Sunday but some supporters of ousted Sultan Seyid Jamshid Bin Abdullah and Prime Minister Mohammed Shammie Hamadi were reported still putting up a fight.

U.S. Consul Frederick P. Picard, one of the two Americans remaining behind, reported in a telephone conversation with the U.S. Embassy in Dar es Salaam there was sporadic shooting and looting. Before his connection was cut, he described the situation as extremely delicate.

An unidentified third secretary of the embassy remained with Picard.

The new regime gave permission for the Manley, which was on a goodwill visit to nearby Kenya, to enter Zanzibar harbor and remove the Americans. Most of them are connected with a tracking station for the Project Mercury satellite program.

Regulations for Fish Industry Given Support

High Temperature Curing and Cold Storage in Rules

MADISON (AP)—Strict regulation of the smoked fish industry which could lead to its modernization won the support of 21 processors and fishermen Monday at a State Agriculture Department hearing.

The rules, designed to insure that no botulism infects smoked fish, would require high temperature curing, cold storage of fish and strictly supervised sanitary conditions at processing plants.

New Rules
The new rules also would prohibit vacuum packed smoked fish.

The hearing was held on the proposed rules issued by the department. No effective date for the regulations was set.

Although processors agreed on the need for regulation, they did not agree on the cost of changing their operations and the time needed to comply.

Gerald Bolda of Milwaukee, a fish processor, said that "minor adaptations" of present smokehouses would solve temperature control problems.

New Equipment
Allen and Dan Smith of Smith Brothers Fisheries at Port Washington said that new gas and steam jet equipment would be needed.

Under the rules, internal fish temperatures would have to be kept at 180 degrees for 30 minutes. Smoked fish would be marked perishable and refrigerated at processing plants and retail stores.

Mrs. Freda Cavendish, 58, a former Charleston area school teacher, chats Monday with Secretary of State Joe F. Burdette after filing for the Republican nomination for governor. By paying her $175 filing fee, Mrs. Cavendish became West Virginia's first woman candidate for governor in more than 30 years. (AP Wire photo)

Farmers Are Optimistic About Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin farmers are optimistic that President Johnson will get behind legislation to boost their sagging incomes, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today.

Proxmire said in a prepared Senate speech that Wisconsin farmers "consider President Johnson, because of his knowledge and interest in farm programs, their best hope for legislation that will permit them to earn more."

7-Day Tour
Reporting on a seven-day tour he made in Wisconsin recently, Proxmire said "the overwhelming majority of Wisconsin farmers recognize that their income is too low."

"They have poured far more work, investment and brainpower into their jobs than anyone else," Proxmire said, "and they resent the fact that they are earning such a miserably inadequate income."

"They are positive that the present farm program is working badly — bad for them as farmers and bad for the taxpayer."

Deeply Concerned
"They are deeply concerned with the charge that they are living on federal handouts because of the cost of the federal farm program."

Proxmire said the farmers favor "almost any change in the farm program which would enable them to earn their price in the market place, with government action kept to a minimum."

He said they recommend a bill he is sponsoring to reduce the dumping of excess milk under federal marketing orders, and also a proposal to provide subsidy cutting payments to farmers who keep production down.

Gubernatorial Nominee

Free Elector Leaders Hail McKeithen's Win

BY BEN THOMAS
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Leaders of the free elector movement in neighboring Southern states have cheered the nomination of John McKeithen as Democratic nominee for governor of Louisiana.

But McKeithen has left the door open as to whether he'll join the unpledged elector drive or support the national party nominee for president.

He said he could conceivably favor the Democratic candidate or the Republican nominee.

Either, Neither
"It's possible I can be for either, or for neither," McKeithen told newsmen Monday as he rested at his 2,000-acre farm in northeast Louisiana.

"I'm not committed in the presidential race. The respective parties' position on civil rights and the nominees' positions will be one of the decisive factors."

McKeithen, 45, schooled in the politics by the late Gov. Earl K. Long, owes much of his success in last Saturday's runoff to sharp criticism of "federal intervention" and charges that his opponent, defenseless S. Morrison, made a deal for a Negro bloc vote.

In hailing McKeithen's nomination, Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi said opposition to federal intervention was the principle which gave strength to "our free, unpledged elector movement."

Barnett and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama are leading the drive for unpledged Southern electors.

The free elector plan calls for selection of presidential electors not pledged to any candidate. Backers say this could leave the South in position to bargain for electoral votes for civil rights concessions.

Wrecking Crews Busy One Month After Flood Swamps Baldwin Hills

Homes Sliced Open by Water Reminders of Grim Tragedy

BY ROBERT M. BURNETT
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Wrecking crews marked the one-month anniversary of the Baldwin Hills Dam disaster today by ramming bulldozers through homes left mangled by the devastating flood.

The area below the broken reservoir—once a tranquil and attractive residential neighborhood—now looks like an urban renewal project as trucks in an endless string haul away rubble and mud.

Flood Path
Homes on each side of the flood path, sliced open by the rampaging waters, gaped on the busy scene, grim reminders of the Dec. 14 tragedy that killed five persons, injured 27, and caused damage estimated at more than $11 million.

Stricken residents, still shocked by the sudden loss, watch demolition crews rip apart the wreckage of their dwellings.

Typical Reaction
Mrs. Mollie Kaplan voiced a typical reaction as a giant crane tore the roof from her home and dropped it into a pile of rubble.

"Somebody is going to have to pay us for this," she said. "Like most victims, she isn't sure just who that will be."

Authorities say 41 homes were swept away or smashed beyond repair.

An estimated 1,500 dwellings were damaged, including 400 of the 650 apartments in Village Green, a garden-court development.

3,000 Autos
More than 3,000 autos were damaged by mud-laden water that surged up to 10-foot deep through business and residential streets. Two schools were closed temporarily. 45 streets blocked off and 56 business and industrial establishments damaged.

Estimates of damage ran as high as $50 million but Col. Earl Peacock, chief area engineer for the Army Engineers, later said that replacement costs would be about $11.3 million.

Cost of the cleanup alone will run about $1 million.

Several inquiries are under way in an effort to determine the cause and to fix responsibility.

Meeting Canceled
HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Crop Improvement Association canceled its meeting to be held Monday here in conjunction with the state farm show here. Heavy snow forced the cancellation.

The principal speaker was Charles L. Hosler of Penn State University. His topic—"Predicting the Weather."

Legislators Not Rushing After Smoker Report

Cigarettes Branded Hazard, Corrective Action Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal report on smoking is not likely to rush Congress into action on bills dealing with cigarettes. No one else seems to be in a rush either.

The federal report issued Saturday branded cigarettes a health hazard and called for corrective action.

Four Bills
Four bills on cigarettes are now before the House Commerce Committee. The oldest has been there almost a year. The newest, almost a month.

Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., the chairman of this powerful committee, said in an interview, "I have made no decision about them and have not scheduled any hearings."

Harris is known in Congress as a man who measures his words carefully. His comment can be taken to mean that headlines about the Public Health Service report on smoking hazards are not going to rush him into quick hearings. But his words do not rule out the possibility of hearings sometime this year.

Stock Sales
Meanwhile, on the New York Stock Exchange, cigar stocks advanced Monday, but most cigarette issues generally, the late trading was in their favor.

It was a comparatively gentle reaction considering the strength of the federal report condemning cigarette smoking—but brokers explained that stocks were already near their lows for 1963-64, and the late recovery indicated the harshness of the report had been expected.

Biron Man Charged With Embezzlement From Credit Union

WISCONSIN RAPIDS (AP)—Charles V. Proctor Sr., 68, of the village of Biron was charged Monday with embezzlement of $22,569 from the Biron Credit Union, which he had served as treasurer since its founding in 1937 until his retirement last month.

The warrant covers shortages from 1941 until December of last year.

Arraigned in Wood County Court, Proctor asked for a preliminary hearing. Judge Frederick A. Fink set bond at $5,000. No date for the hearing was set.

Repealed in 1927 Kansas Law Once Prohibited Sale of Cigarettes in State

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—While the nation ponders what to do about cigarettes, old-timers recall that Kansas once tried to put a stop to smoking.

It tried for 18 years.

The Legislature passed a law on March 2, 1909, prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in the state. The law also prohibited persons under 21 years of age from smoking in public.

Mixed Reactions
There was a penalty of $25 to $100 for each offense.

The law met mixed reactions—and had mixed effects on Kansans. The same mail which delivered criminals to rural and small town ladies began bringing cigarettes to their husbands and boy friends from neighboring Missouri and Colorado.

Smoking was an expensive habit then. Cigarettes which sold for 11 to 15 cents per pack in Missouri sold for 20 cents a pack in Wichita and 25 cents in some smaller towns.

After years of questionable success the Legislature began facing up to facts in 1925. The state Senate passed a repeal bill that year, but the House killed it.

In 1927 the repeal was introduced in the House. A kicker on the bill was a two-cents-per-pack tax. After a tough fight, the state's "great experiment" against tobacco came to an end. But Kansas law still prohibits sale of cigarettes to minors, and prohibits candidates for public office from giving away cigars on election day.

Discarded '63 Calendar Will Make 'Dates by Dozen' Game

BY CAPPY DICK

Look around for a large, discarded 1963 calendar and use it for a game called "Dates by Dozen." The game is played with a set of 12 numbers (1 to 12) and a set of 12 numbers (1 to 12) and a set of 12 numbers (1 to 12).

cards, any "4" cards, and so on. When he can play no more numbers consecutively, he places one of his cards face up in front of him. The second player lays down any "1" cards he has, then plays on any of the piles he can, including the card in front of the first player. So it goes, each player playing on any pile in the center of the table, or in front of any other player. He may also pick up a card in front of him and put it on any pile if it is a consecutive number in the pile.

The first player to get rid of all the cards in his hand and in front of him wins the game.

Five Other Former Foxes to Try For Positions With Baltimore

BY JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—If his performance in the final few weeks of the 1963 season is any indication, Sam Bowens, rookie outfield prospect from Rochester, will be in right field when the Baltimore Orioles open their 1964 baseball campaign.

Tall, graceful and right-handed all the way, the 24-year-old native of Wilmington, N.C., is the plum of the Orioles' farm system. Last year, his fourth in the minors, Bowens batted .287 while accumulating 22 home runs and 70 RBI.

He joined the Orioles for the last few weeks of the season and

NFL, Canada May Work Out Farm System

Players Could be Shipped to CFL On Lend-Lease Basis

EDMONTON (AP)—Several Canadian Football League managers are warning to the idea of accepting National Football League players on a farm basis, says Joe Ryan of the Edmonton Eskimos.

The NFL has sought an agreement with the CFL whereby players could be shipped to Canada on a lend-lease system. The Canadian League voted down the idea last year.

Ryan, general manager of the Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Conference, said Monday that the new interest is caused by CFL difficulty in trying to recruit new players in the United States.

"It's no secret that the NFL is out to starve the American League," Ryan said. "They would rather see a player come up here than go to the AFL. But we must still outbid the American League to get those players—they're dishing up the money like it's going out of style."

A farm agreement with the NFL will come up again at the CFL meeting here next month.

Initial Big Ten Triumph Of Season for Wisconsin; Zubor High With 19 Points

MADISON (AP)—Wisconsin battled its way out of the Big Ten basketball cellar with an impressive 79-61 victory over Iowa Monday night that gave the young Badgers a 1-3 league mark at the semester break.

The Badgers, displaying a balanced scoring attack led by center Mark Zubor's 19 points, fired at a 48.5 per cent clip in winning their first conference battle this season.

Wisconsin pushed to an early lead and built it to 37-31 at half

White Sox Sign Gary Peters For $20,000

AL 'Rookie of Year' In Florida Working To Reduce Curve Ball

BY MIKE RATHET
Gary Peters has a fat contract, and a curve ball in the same condition.

A 26-year-old left-hander who nailed down American League Rookie of the Year honors last season by posting a 19-8 record, Peters received the fat contract Monday when he signed for the 1964 baseball season with the Chicago White Sox.

Peters signed for an estimated $20,000 from a distance of some 1,000 miles. While the announcement was made in Chicago, Peters was in Sarasota, Fla. working with pitching coach Ray Berres in an effort to reduce his portly curve ball.

"That's his only weakness—too big of a curve," says Berres. "He leaves the ball hanging up there for home runs some times, or it breaks so much it hits the feet of a right-handed batter. It's so big that batters can anticipate it."

Wins ERA Title
Nevertheless, Peters proved difficult to anticipate last year after stepping into the White Sox' starting rotation, reeling off 11 straight victories and eventually winning the league's earned run title with a 2.33 average.

While Peters became the first White Sox player to sign, third baseman Rich Rollins signed with Minnesota, catcher Ed Bailey and Gene Oliver with Milwaukee and pitchers Bob Garibaldi and Al Stanek with San Francisco.

Rollins, who had a broken jaw and a hip injury last season, signed for a contract in the neighborhood of $15,000-$20,000 after winding up third in the American League batting race with a .307 average. He hit 16 homers and collected 61 runs batted in.

time before the onrushing Hawkeyes closed the gap at 41-14 four minutes after the intermission.

Guard Mike O'Melia broke the tie with a pair of field goals and then Wisconsin, employing a full court press, settled down to pull steadily away.

O'Melia, the Badgers' senior captain, scored 11 points as did sophomore Dave Roberts and Jim Bohlen. Reserve guard Dave Grams fired in seven field goals to contribute 14 points to Wisconsin's attack.

Iowa started slowly, scoring only four points in the first four and a half minutes, while Wisconsin pushed in a dozen. The Hawkeyes' leading scorer, Dave Roach, picked up three early fouls and sat out the rest of the first half without scoring a point.

Joel Jensen topped Iowa's attack with 14 points. The Hawkeyes have a 1-2 league mark.

Shoot 63 Per Cent
Wisconsin's offensive onslaught sizzled at a 63 per cent shooting pace in the second half. In the last two games Wisconsin hit only 31 per cent of its shots but against Iowa the Badgers finished with a 48.5 average.

The Badgers will take time out for semester examinations before resuming action Jan. 28 against Marquette in Milwaukee.

Hoelt Could be 'Sleeper' in Big Trade, Says Ed Bailey

Former Giant Catcher, Oliver Sign Contracts

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Veteran catcher Ed Bailey came to town Monday and was something of a winter whirlwind as he signed his first contract with the Milwaukee Braves, appeared at a luncheon and made a few forecasts.

He and other Braves, the team's management and community officials gathered with press-radio-television representatives for the opening of "Mid-Winter Baseball Week in Wisconsin."

The 33-year-old Bailey, acquired last month in the trade with San Francisco, was not the only Brave to sign his contract Monday. Gene Oliver also came to terms and said he got a raise. Oliver played first base and the outfield for Milwaukee after he was obtained from St. Louis in the Lew Burdette trade last summer.

Could Be Sleeper
Bailey said that southpaw pitcher Billy Hoelt could be a sleeper in the trade which brought them and outfielder Felipe Alou to the Braves. Hoelt, a native of Oshkosh, had a disappointing season after injuring his shoulder last year. "Hoelt knows how to pitch and he's not afraid of anybody when he's out there," Bailey said. "If he throws like he did before he got hurt, he'll help this club a lot."

Bailey continued that Alou "was the pivotal figure for the Braves in the trade," and added, "I'm going to do them some good, too, catching on pinch hitting."

Bailey said, "Alou solves the center field problem for Milwaukee, both with his glove and his bat. He's a good player and because he is right-handed hitting."

Post-Crescent Ski School Holds First Session Tonight

The first session of the Post-Crescent Ski School will be held at 7:30 tonight in Castle Hill in the Knights of Pythias Building, Lawrence and Morrison Streets.

The indoor instruction was substituted this year for the first class session. It will last about one hour. Instructors will meet after the session.

There is some question whether outdoor classes can start Saturday morning as scheduled. The wind played havoc with the snow on the hill in Calumet County Park over the weekend and as of now snow conditions are not good. Students will have to watch these sports pages for further information later in the week.

Ski School Director John Torinus will conduct the indoor session tonight, which will feature two movies by Warren Miller. One is on the modern Austrian technique and the other is entitled, "Skiing in Powder Above 10,000 Feet."

Aaron Receives Jeweled Crown as Sultan of Swat

BALTIMORE (AP)—Milwaukee Braves slugger Hank Aaron received the jeweled Sultan of Swat crown Monday night at the 11th annual Tops in Sports banquet.

Aaron shared the platform with former New York Yankee slugger Joe DiMaggio, who received an identical award for his hitting exploits of 25 years ago.

Aaron hit 44 home runs and drove in 130 runs last season, tying the majors in RBI's and leading with Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants for home runs. Aaron also batted .319 to finish tied for third in the National League.

The $2,000 award, made by the Maryland Professional Baseball Writers Association, was presented in previous years to Mickey Mantle, Ted Williams, Ernie Banks, Eddie Mathews, Roger Maris and Willie Mays.

Gomer Jones' Stock Rises

Cross, Oklahoma's President, Endorses Players' Petition

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Dr. George L. Cross, president of the University of Oklahoma, endorsed a players' petition Sunday night asking that line coach Gomer Jones be named to succeed Bud Wilkinson as head football coach.

Cross' action should boost the chances of Jones, also believed to be the choice of Wilkinson, who still is athletic director. Wilkinson resigned Saturday as head coach.

However, several members of the Board of Regents, which will make the final decision, have said privately they would like to hire a coach from outside the present staff.

The petition urging the appointment of Jones was signed by 46 members of the squad who played under Wilkinson and who will be back for more competition. Freshmen and graduating seniors did not participate.

All But 2 or 3

Team co-captain Nowt Burton said all but two or three members of the squad who were out of town signed the petition.

Jones, who will be 50 next month, served as line coach during the 17 years Wilkinson was coach. The former Ohio State lineman previously had served at John Carroll, Ohio State and Nebraska.

Jones, who has developed 10 All-America linemen at Oklahoma, has turned down several head coaching jobs at other schools, but could be expected to accept the Oklahoma job if it is offered.

For Ten, Use Four

I recommend the four-step delivery, the one that I have used for many years. Start with the right foot, but make both the first and second steps short and fairly slow. (And get that ball moving on the push-away!)

The third step should be a little longer and faster. On the fourth step, your left foot should come to a sliding halt near the line as your ball takes off. If you are thinking of changing from a three- or five-step delivery, practice it at home a few times and the motion will seem more natural at the lanes.

Nytes, Drier Share Couples Loop Honors

Ed Nytes hit a 243 game and Milt Drier spilled a 624 triple to share honors in the Cornic Couples Bowling League at Hahn's Lanes. Drier had a 225 er, got an early jump on spring workouts.

The 20's pace the standings with a 20-9 1/2 record. Sally Nabbeffeld registered a 198 and a 510 to top the women's scores, as scout Harold Lefty Phillips ran the squad through a brisk 611 to sweep honors in the batting grid. And old pro Maury Booser Couples' League at the Wills showed newcomers the 41 Bowl Tex' Technin had a finer points of bunting.

585 and Bob Witte hit a 554 for the only other honor counts. The pitchers, concentrating mostly on sacrifice base hits, Phillips said.

He added that Wills, a base the 41 Bowl Nuts Couples League stealing specialist, will work with the rookies on running in subsequent sessions.

Finley Says League Helped Arrange Trips

A's Owner Claims If He Goes Down, League Goes, Too

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley said if he goes down, the American League will go with him, and baseball wonders about his next move at a league meeting in New York Thursday on his attempt to move the Athletics to Louisville.

The fiery A's owner says he has been "backed into a corner by all that has happened." But his latest statements would indicate he feels he has the American League in a corner, instead.

Finley charged Monday the league owners and Joe Cronin, league president, helped arrange his trips to Dallas in 1961 and Oakland last year to discuss possible franchise shifts, and gave him their blessing.

"This is why I say there isn't the slightest chance the league can make me sell my franchise," Finley told Ernie Mehl, Kansas City Star sports editor, by telephone from Chicago Monday.

"The league is as involved in this as I am," he said, then added, "this isn't all but I'm saving some things to spring at the meeting."

Finley has denied reports he might consider a law suit against the other owners if they turned down his request to move to Louisville.

Orioles Count On Bowers

ent Birds, as did three Elmira pitchers—Darold Knowles, John Papa and Frank Bertina.

Miller got off to a roaring start but lost his last 11 decisions and wound up with an 8-15 record. Arm trouble was blamed for his sad finish. Vineyard finished strong for an 8-6 record after missing spring training because of a serious infection of the leg following a bulldozer accident.

Starrette had a remarkable 1.13 earned run average in relief and posted a 6-2 record. Narum was 6-12.

Knowles, a left-hander with a silky motion, may be a dark horse. He posted a 16-7 record and was tied for the most victories in the Eastern League. Papa was 11-10 and Bertina 4-9.

Nineteen-year-old bonus pitcher Wally Bunker was a sensation at Stockton after reporting in June. He posted a 10-1 record and added another victory in the playoff.

In the running for a utility job is Curt Blefary, 20-year-old slugger who was obtained from the Yankees' organization. The former Wagner College outfielder hit 29 home runs, 25 at Elmira and four at Elmira. His problem is catching and throwing the ball. The Orioles don't know where to play him.

Another promising young slugger is Dave Johnson, who had 19 home runs at Elmira and Rochester. Last season was Johnson's first as a pro but he so outclassed Eastern League pitching, .326, that the Orioles elevated him to Rochester in July. He batted .245 for the Red Wings.

Paul Blair, 19-year-old outfield draftee from the New York Mets, had a tremendous season at Stockton. He batted .324, hit 16 homers, drove in 81 runs and stole 60 bases.

It's the opinion of Harry Dunlop, Stockton manager, that Blair could develop into an outfielder. Blair took off. If you are thinking of changing from a three- or five-step delivery, practice it at home a few times and the motion will seem more natural at the lanes.

Bowers, Starrette, Miller and Vineyard played with the Fox Cities Foxes in 1961 while Papa, Narum, Powell and Ward were all members of the Foxes' 1960 Three-I League champions.

Dodgers Launch Workouts Early

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, taking advantage of near 70-degree weather, got an early jump on spring workouts.

With much of the nation snowed out and shivering, the Dodgers shook out the kinks Monday as scout Harold Lefty Phillips ran the squad through a brisk 611 to sweep honors in the batting grid. And old pro Maury Booser Couples' League at the Wills showed newcomers the 41 Bowl Tex' Technin had a finer points of bunting.

He added that Wills, a base the 41 Bowl Nuts Couples League stealing specialist, will work with the rookies on running in subsequent sessions.

Candy Newman, Daneta Downie Top LSC in Meet

The Lawrence Swim Club accumulated a total of 40 points in the Eau Claire age group open swim meet held last weekend.

Candy Newman and Daneta Downie shared individual honors for the Lawrence squad. Candy, swimming in the senior division, took a third place in the 100-yard breaststroke Saturday and on Sunday placed second in the butterfly, fourth in freestyle and sixth in the individual medley. Daneta, in the 11-12 year-old bracket, was third in both the 100 and 200 freestyle races on Saturday and Sunday finished second in the freestyle and sixth in the individual medley.

Germaine Herrbold was sixth in the freestyle race for seniors and Norma Downie was third in the 100-yard freestyle. The senior 400-yard medley relay team for Lawrence finished fifth as did the relay team for 13-14 year olds.

Riste Hammers 602 Pin Triple

Mike Riste's 602 series paced the Wednesday Night Classic Bowling League at Radtke's Recreation Alleys in Weyauwega.

Milford Kresie hit a 572 for the only other honor count. Vanderloop Implement leads the teams in the AAA Kegler circuit at Michiel's Bowl in Sherwood. There were no honor counts in the latest session.

Most College Coaches Approve Rule Change

BY MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Labeled "creeping platformism" by Doug Weaver of Kansas State, college football's new, nearly unlimited substitution rule has received overwhelming approval from "the country's coaches."

One vociferous exception is Auburn's Ralph Jordan who sees Sunday's development as "a sad day for intercollegiate football."

Paul Dietzel of Army and Ara Parseghian, recently named coach at Notre Dame, agree that the rule appears to be much more liberal than that of the past season.

"If this is true," Dietzel said, "I'm pleased about it . . . I like it very much."

"I'm pleased that they have gone as far as they have," Parseghian commented.

Dodd Like It
Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech was "delighted." "The closer to free substitution the better I like it," he declared.

The rule adopted by the NCAA Football Rules Committee in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is the most liberal since free substitution went into effect after the 1952 season.

Under the new rule, entire teams may enter a game whenever the clock is stopped. If the clock is not stopped by an incomplete pass, measurement for a first down or a similar circumstance, and a team wants to send in a new platoon, it must give up a time out.

Two players may enter a game on any down when the clock is running.

The 1953 rule permitted platoon substitutions only on second and third downs with the clock stopped. Two players could enter a contest at any time.

Jordan, declaring he is "utterly opposed to free substitution," said football "is out of the educational field and into the entertainment field."

Football, he added, "is now a game where coaches will strictly exploit the talent of a particular boy without having to particularly teach him anything."

Many coaches, however, feel two-way football will remain a part of the game.

Work Both Ways
"I think the rule change will help us quite a bit," said John McKay of Southern California.

"It's spring practice we'll try to develop boys who work both ways, then decide in the fall who will play mostly offense or defense."

"You are still going to have to have the boys ready to play a little offense and a little defense in case they get caught in there."

"I know we will still use two-way players," Yale's John Pont said, "and I don't think you will see 11 substituting for 11 right away."

The question of strategy in stopping the clock when the ball changes hands also came up.

Parseghian asked: "What happens if you have used all your time outs and are caught with your defensive or offensive team on the field in a situation which calls for the other platoon?"

Paul Bryant of Alabama and Murray Warmath of Minnesota actually favor two-way football but are ready to accept the new rule.

Darrell Royal of Texas, coach of the year who had said he preferred to see the rules remain unchanged, was not available for comment.

Then there was Navy's Wayne Hardin who declared: "I really don't care one way or another. We'll sit down and analyze it and adjust accordingly to fit our situation."

But then how many coaches are in Hardin's situation—with quarterback Roger Staubach back for another season?

Davidson Runs Streak to 13

Fifth-Ranked Quint Tops Citadel, 88-67; Vanderbilt Wins

BY BOB GREEN

Down in Davidson they love Davidson. And Davidson.

In fact, Davidson is one of the big reasons Davidson loves Davidson so.

Lest this get confusing, let us explain:

There is a certain town in North Carolina called Davidson. The good people of the community have a great affection for a certain college there, also called Davidson. One of the reasons they have that affection is a certain basketball player, also called Davidson. Don Davidson.

Another reason is that the Davidson Wildcats keep on winning. The nation's fifth-ranked college basketball team reeled off victory No. 13 in an unbeaten season Monday night, beating The Citadel 88-67.

Vanderbilt, No. 6, the only other ranked team in action, beat Mississippi 88-81 and ran its record to 13-1. In other major action, Dayton romped over Portland 82-60 and Oklahoma State took over undisputed possession of first place in the Big Eight with a 77-58 clouting of Kansas State.

Davidson, the player and the Wildcats' top defensive operative, sparked a harassing, pressing defense that helped Davidson, the team, bomb out to a 16-point lead in the first 10 minutes. The Citadel was held to just two field goals in the span.

Vanderbilt was never in serious trouble against Ole Miss, with the Rebels closing up against Vandy subs only late in the game. The Commodores had a 60-40 halftime lead.

Xavier Frosh '5' Reisters Pair Of Victories

The frosh Hawks downed Premontre, 38-34, Wisconsin Rapids Assumption, 59-53.

Gene Jack led the attack in both contests with 11 against Premontre and 22 against Assumption. Bobby Simon contributed 14 against Wisconsin Rapids.

The youthful Hawks are slated to play a pair of games this weekend. They play host to Menasha St. Mary Friday and to Little Chute St. John Saturday (at 1 p.m.).

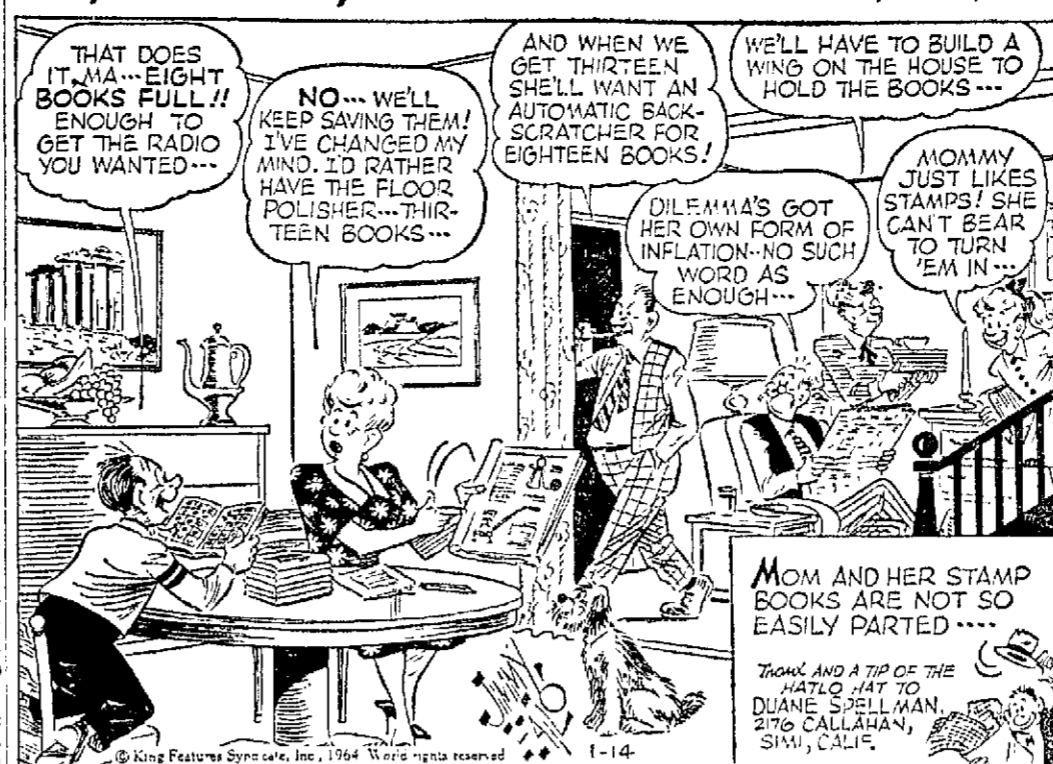

Vin Jansen Hits 610 'Valley' Set

LITTLE CHUTE — Gene Vanden Heuvel pounded a 231 line and Vin Jansen hit a 610 series to lead the Fox Valley Bowling League at Little Chute Recreation.

Jansen Construction (35 - 22) holds a 3-game lead over E-Z Glide Doors. Other honor counts were hit by Vanden Heuvel, 590; Eddie Poppie, 575; Jack Lamers, 574; Les Ulmen, 570; Pete Vanden Heuvel, 568; George Evers, 566; Jerry Lamers, 558; Bill DeGoey, 558. Don Sanderfoot, 550.

NBA All-Star Game Slated to Go on Despite Snow in Boston Stockbridge Duels Chilton Quint Tonight

BOSTON (AP)—East Coach West club whose five starters Red Auerbach hopes the West have an aggregate per-game keeps Walt Bellamy at center, scoring average of 121 points in the 14th National Basketball Association All-Star game tonight.

Wilt Chamberlain gives Bill Russell more trouble. The classic, preceded by an old timers event, is expected to be played without a hitch despite a howling blizzard Monday night which stranded some of the athletes en route. A party of 18 was hung up in Chicago and eight more delayed in St. Louis.

West center Bellamy of Baltimore, like the Celtics' pivot Russell, was a unanimous choice for his team in the balloting conducted by sports writers. The player getting the most votes for his position starts, so Bellamy gets the nod over San Francisco's Chamberlain, who will not answer the opening whistle for the first time in five appearances.

More Trouble
"Chamberlain gives Russell more trouble than Bellamy," Auerbach said concerning his rebounding shot-blocking star.

Russell and Cincinnati's great all-around Oscar Robertson held the East plans to slow down the CHILTON—The Chilton Tigers and the Stockbridge Indians will meet in non-conference basketball play here tonight.

Leading the attack for the Tigers will be high-scoring Jim Vogel, who has been averaging over 20 points per game in conference play. Gerry Mayer paces the Indians with his 18-point average.

The non-conference game was begun in 1961 after a layoff of several years. Chilton leads in the series, 2-1.

Probable starting lineup for Stockbridge will be Gary Daun and Gene Comerford, forwards; Bob Mayer and Bob Daun, guards, and Gerry Mayer, center.

For Chilton, Don McHugh and Scott Wilson, guards; Tom Dhein, Jim Vogel and Al Whitby, forwards.

Rules Group Makes Several More Changes Will be Illegal For Quarterback to Slam Ball Down

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—The college football rules committee, which approved the most liberal substitution since 1952, the wide-open era of ends cleaned up some odds and ends before it left town.

It will be illegal for a quarterback to slam the ball down to ground it.

The rule requiring a substitute going into a game to remain for at least one down was eliminated.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association committee also took one more step Monday to simplify the new substitution rules, which will allow unlimited substitution when the clock is stopped and two subs at any time. A clause to prevent the faking of injuries was eliminated.

"We wanted to go all the way in simplification," said committee chairman Ivan Williamson of Wisconsin.

"We wanted the coach to be able to look up at that clock when it was stopped for any reason." He said the committee felt that the faking of injuries was not a serious problem anyway.

A subcommittee will study proposals to eliminate loss of down penalties and to force stopping of the clock when crowd noises drown out the signals.

Steels, Rails, Airlines Rise

Irregular Trend In Active Trade On N. Y. Exchange

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels, airlines and rails advanced in an irregularly higher stock market today. Trading was active.

Cigarette stocks were mixed, showing fractional changes, in a second-day reaction to the surgeon general's report on smoking and health.

Stocks of cigar manufacturers continued to move a bit higher, but were not as strong as Monday when they responded to the mild treatment accorded cigar-smoking in the government report.

Aluminums continued to gain in the wake of price-boost news. The steels were outstanding performers. Wall Street was impressed by the rebound in weekly steel production to the highest level since late June.

Airlines continued to be inspired by reports of gains in passenger traffic and forecasts of further improvement.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 289.4 with industrials up .4, rails up .7 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.37 at 774.49.

Tektronix, most active stock for the past two sessions, was swamped with buy orders and was delayed in opening, finally trading on blocks of 40,000 and 1,000 shares, up 7/8 at 30. It pushed the gain to 2.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly higher in moderately active trading.

Six-Point Plan Would Improve Court Machinery

SEYMOUR — Justice Horace W. Wilkie of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, today proposed a six-point program to improve judicial administration in the state.

5. Increase use of supreme court rules to modernize court procedures.
6. Adhere to Wisconsin system of electing all judges.

Federal Tax Offices Will Aid Residents With Income Returns

The program for providing taxpayers with assistance in preparing their federal income tax returns for 1963 has been announced by E. J. Nelson, district director of internal revenue.

Nelson said taxpayers could get answers to most questions by referring carefully to the instruction sheet accompanying return forms. Other answers can be secured by telephoning the local office of the Internal Revenue Service, each Monday.

In most offices in the state, a complement of experienced revenue agents will be available to assist taxpayers on Jan. 20 and each Monday through April 15.

Responsibility for Care of Aged Sometimes Troublesome for Family

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

At the Riverview Sanatorium and General Hospital located in a sun-drenched park on the outskirts of Kaukauna, a small drama was taking place. The drama is ordinary and ancient: it has been enacted thousands of times. And the play will go on and on with new members of the dramatic personae: and it will be unchanged for all the years to come, all over the world.

The actors: A very old person. Their dotting children. A doctor. Nurses, therapists. The story is invariable; it is sad but it is standard; and its ending is usually a happy one.

Anybody could write such a play, but you write this one. It has been presented unknowingly and perhaps unwillingly so often that Dr. John G. Russo, superintendent and medical director of the Sanatorium and hospital, can tell it by rote. He has seen it so many times.

Said Dr. Russo: There comes the time when a parent gets old and ill. It will happen to you and it will happen to me. This one — a mother — is 85 years old. She's feeble. She's unable to help herself. Probably, she's had a stroke. Probably her right side is paralyzed.

Her children ask themselves what can be done. They face their problem with great reluctance, most of them. They have a family gathering. They look at each other sheepishly, guiltily.

Must Face Problem

They don't like to get to the problem, but at last they do. Someone will put it into words, something like this:

"We've got to face it. Ma is too sick for us to take care of. Our house is too small and my wife is too nervous. Ma gets our kids upset even though she doesn't mean to. Now here's the way we look at it. There's four of us. Why can't we sort of take turns with her? Why can't Ma stay at Henry's house for a month or so, then at Alice's, then at Marge's, then with me?"

There is a reluctant agreement. The family realized that one of Ma's sons shouldn't bear all the responsibility. The problems of necessary care, of practical, and sometimes unpleasant, nursing are too many. The members of the family — each feeling that the burden should be divided — attempt to do so.

But it doesn't work. Ma is too old, too intractable to go gracefully through the changes. Each month she's taken from things she knows and is beginning to accept and then she is put into new situations in different locales. Change church, change children, change grandchildren, change neighbors and sometimes even change cities—it's too difficult for Ma.

Not Easy for Man

Then there comes the realization that the pushing and pulling around is not easy for her nor for anybody. There's another family conference. It's an emotional one. Somebody says, "It isn't right to 'put Ma away.'"

Dr. Russo doesn't care for that expression — "Put away." In today's social system it is perhaps best for the aged to find new friends, new interests, to have special professional care by people who know and understand the complex problems of the very old.

However, in anguish, the children decide: Ma should have better care than they can give for them!" But she is too old, her. She should be "put away" as they say. Costs should be divided among the children. Then the plan is explained to Ma who accepts it because (1) she is wise and (2) she can do very little about it.

Same Theme Song

The doctor has heard the theme song before. It is well known to him, every word of it, every phrase.

Dr. Russo is knowledgeable in the field of geriatrics, a branch of medicine which deals with the problems and illness of aging and aged people. He does some explaining at this session but it doesn't do very much good—not this time.

The children are feeling a sense of guilt though they probably should not. One of the elements of a fast-growing American social system has caught up with them. It is grossly unpleasant. It is hard to bear. They love Ma. They feel guilty because they have "put her away." But it is probable that they have done the only thing they could do.

Now, Ma is brave enough to enter the hospital but she is not brave enough to think that the new regime is going to lengthen her life. And she is not brave enough to accept what she believes will now happen—that her children will soon desert her and leave her to die, alone, unloved.

Bring Presents

But the kids are dutiful. They visit her at every opportunity. They bring her little presents. They try to cheer her up, try to help her adjust. But Ma thinks she sees the handwriting on the wall: Soon, she thinks, they'll forget her.

Ma thinks, "after all I've done for them!" But she is too old, too tired and probably too wise to show anger or even to be angry. She thinks she must find the plan is explained to Ma who accepts it because (1) she is wise and (2) she can do very little about it.

The one way she is sure of is to get sympathy. So, when the kinds come to visit, they ask her how things are. Ma tells them she is neglected. Nobody looks after her. They won't give her the pills she has to have. Her bed is too low, or too high. She is miserable. They make her eat things which are not good for her. They don't like her here. She's unhappy. wishes she could die. She is sick. Nobody loves her.

The kids go to the doctor, fire in their eyes. They want to know what this is all about. How come, Doctor? How come? Their feeling of guilt—right or wrong—is working. So is Ma's innocent and understandable technique for holding of her children to her.

Knows the Answers

Dr. Russo is a good, common-sense fellow but he has seen the play so many times that he could write it before it happens. However, he knows that it is new, it is dreadful, it is unhappy for the children. He explains:

"Old people never really have a good day. But can you feel hale and vigorous when you are 85 years old? Ask them how they are and they will tell you—terrible. And a mother will complain to her children because it is the only way she has to make sure they pay attention to her, that they don't forget her."

And Dr. Russo writes the script over and over for the children. They begin to understand but they still feel guilty, unhappy. They love Ma and they are unhappy. They think seriously to themselves, "After all the sacrifices that Ma has made for us! We put her away!" And they hate themselves secretly although they tell each other that, really, it was the best thing—for Ma.

Then, almost overnight, Ma begins to feel physically better. Then she begins to feel emotionally better. Then she begins to enter into the spirit of the hospital. She meets new friends, plays some games with them, does some of the therapeutic handwork. Feels good.

The curtain falls on Act. II. (Tomorrow: Geriatrics, Russo style)

PROPER HUMIDITY IS IMPORTANT TO HEALTH

People who winter in warm, dry houses are especially vulnerable to colds. Or as one doctor puts it, "A dry nose is at the root of many of the fall epidemics of coughs and colds." However, it's not heat that makes the trouble. It's the lack of moisture — the low relative humidity of the air we breathe.

woodwork, furniture, paintings, books and plants. Yes, we should add moisture to the air of most homes. But how?

OLD STYLE "HUMIDIFIERS" JUST DON'T DO THE JOB!

Old-timers were on the right track with their homemade humidifiers. The teakettle on the stove, washing hung indoors... the water pan on the radiator. They helped, but were uncontrollable and woefully inadequate.

BUT MODERN ELECTRIC HOME HUMIDIFIERS PROVIDE DESIRABLE LEVELS OF HUMIDITY

Modern electric home humidifiers automatically hold relative humidity at selected levels. An electric humidifier is a good investment in family health and comfort. Economical, dependable... electric home humidifiers are available for any home — in portable and permanently installed models. Built-in units are available from your heating contractor. Portable units are available from your dealer or us.

Electric humidifiers provide just one more way to live better... electrically.

Byrnes Turns Over $22,800 to Scholar Fund at Green Bay

Gift Includes All Profits

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Scholarships, Inc., of Green Bay, today received $22,800 from sale of 966 shares of Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Co. stock given to the organization by Rep. John Byrnes.

The transaction was the result of a pledge in a house speech by Byrnes Nov. 21 to give the profits from a controversial 1960 stock purchase to the Green Bay charity. Byrnes said he would give the profits to Scholarships, Inc., because he had determined, in investigating the stock purchase, that he had received a preferential price under that existing in the stock market at the time.

Gift Accepted
"Mrs. Byrnes and I have transferred ownership of all the MGIC stock in our possession in accordance with my previously announced intention to realize no personal gain from the shares. We extend to Scholarships, Inc., our wish for every success in its program of making college education possible for deserving young people in our home town," Byrnes said in a statement to Scholarships, Inc.

In making the announcement, Scholarships, Inc., said it was "pleased to announce that (it) has accepted a contribution from Rep. and Mrs. John Byrnes which will materially assist us in furthering the objectives of this organization." "We are deeply grateful for the Byrnes' contribution. It will make it possible for us to continue and enlarge our program of financial help for worthy area students in pursuit of higher education," the organization said.

Shares Sold Yesterday
John M. Rose, treasurer, said Byrnes transferred ownership of the 966 MGIC shares and they were sold Monday. Donation in the form of the transferred shares rather than the proceeds

(Another Story on Page A-10)

MADISON (AP) — Wilbur Renk, a Sun Prairie farmer-businessman, announced himself a candidate today for the Republican nomination for U.S. senator and said he hopes his campaign will appeal to independent voters as well as GOP regulars.

The 55-year-old Republican, who has established a reputation as a moderate, told a news conference he plans to tailor his campaign to suit voters not aligned with either political extreme.

Supporters from the far right were specifically singled out as unwanted. "I will not take any support from the John Birch Society," Renk said. "They're not going to be for me and I'm not going to be for them."

Difficult Race
Then in a jab at the man he expects to face in the general election — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. — Renk said he would attempt to convince voters that Wisconsin needs "statesmen, not politicians."

"I realize this will be a difficult race," Renk said. "The opponent I will face is a relentless campaigner. But maybe he's a better campaigner than he is a Senator, and I will point this out with clarity and vigor."

Renk's announcement was made at a crowded news conference in a downtown Madison hotel. With the candidate were his wife, Helen, and family members including two grandchildren, Craig and Cynthia Tomlin of Stoughton. Craig is four. Cynthia is two months.

Arabs Discuss Ways To Curb Israel on River Diversion Plan

CAIRO (AP) — The Arab summit conference buckled down today to the hard facts of what the Arab states can—and can't—do about Israel's plans to divert waters of the Jordan River.

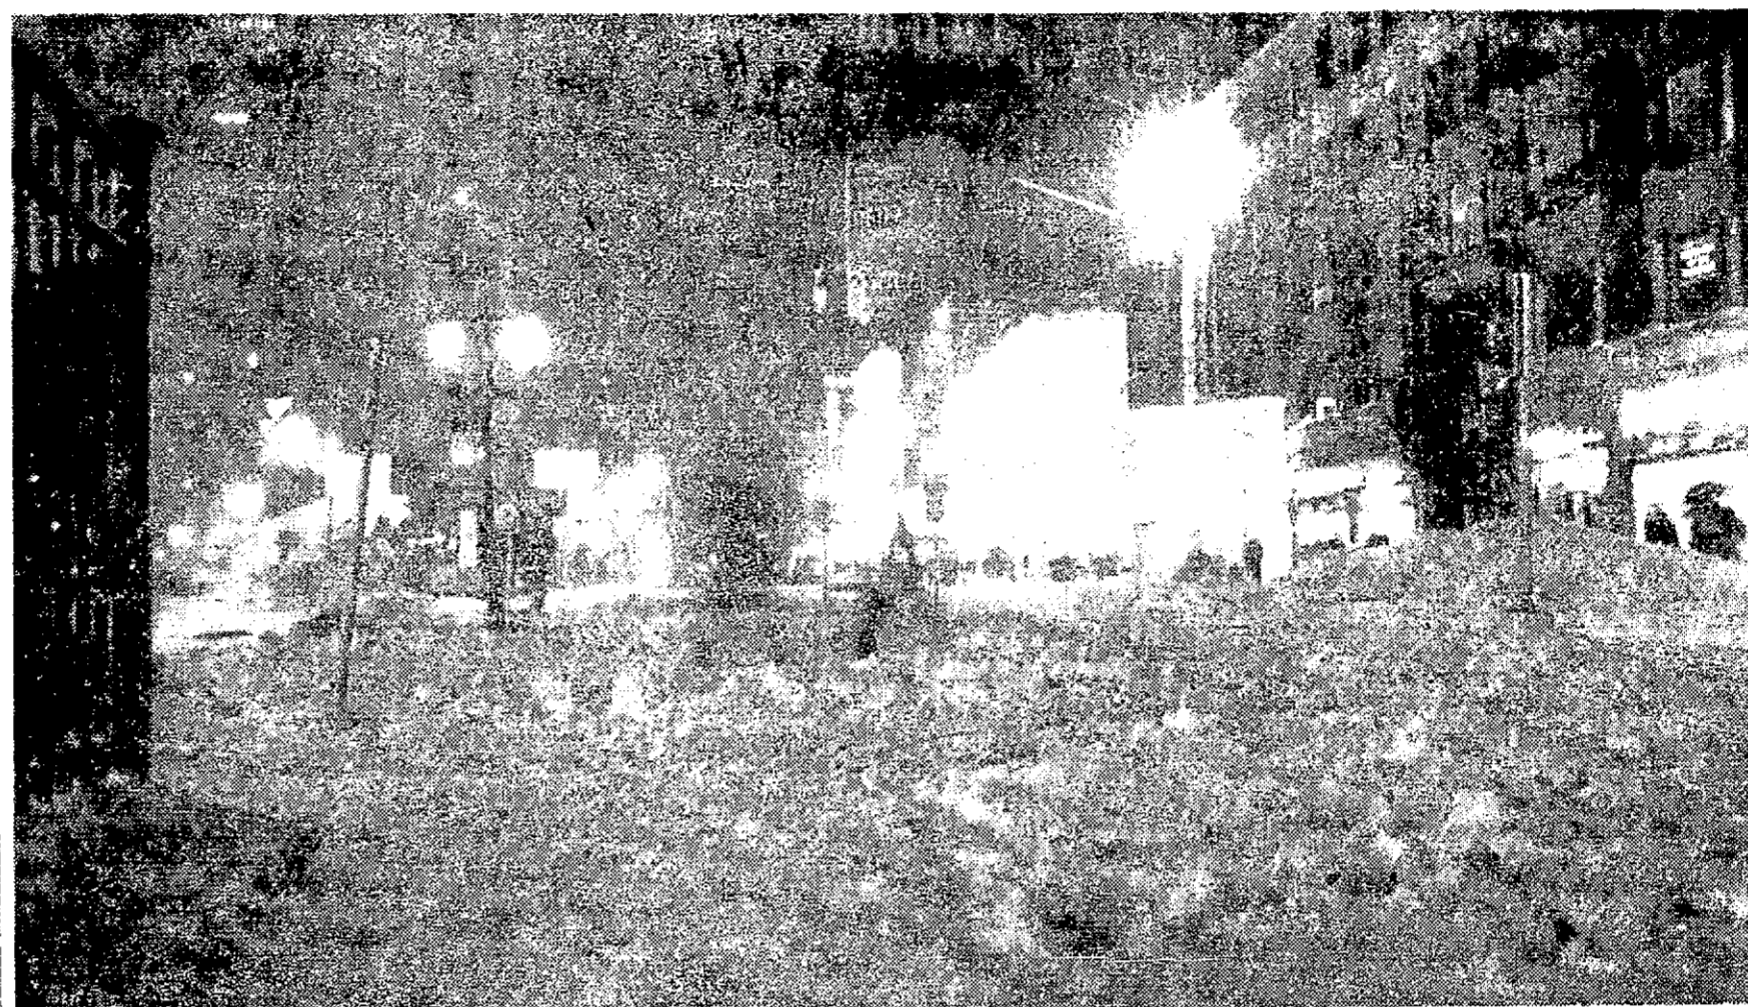

The chiefs of state and government leaders of the 13-nation Arab League were to hear reports from the league's permanent joint military committee and from the Arab Technical Commission for Jordan Waters.

A spokesman for President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic said after the opening conference session Monday the leaders unanimously agreed the meeting must adopt "definite resolutions."

Storm Causes 92 Fatalities, Maroons Many Travelers

New York's Times Square is deserted Monday night under a blanket of wind-whipped snow. A 19-hour storm deposited 13 inches of snow on the city. This view looks south toward 42nd

Street. Many New York schools were closed today and about 3,000 travelers spent Monday night at Kennedy International Airport after all flights were canceled after runways were drifted in.

Drifts Up to 20 Feet in Some Areas

BY RICHARD F. WHALEN

Associated Press Writer

The howling snowstorm that blasted much of eastern United States—worst in years in spots—left scores dead in its wake today. Huge drifts marooned thousands of travelers overnight.

The death toll was at least 92. The storm system that swirled into blizzard proportions in the Northeast dumped more than two feet of snow in some sections. Gale force winds whipped the snow into drifts—some 20 feet high.

Many school systems, including those in New York City and Philadelphia, closed today. Business closings were widespread.

3,000 at Airport
About 3,000 travelers spent the night at Kennedy International Airport in New York after all flights were canceled because of drifts on the runways. In Pennsylvania, 250 pupils were marooned overnight at a high school.

Their reaction, as one put it: "Down with snowplows. This is the swiftest party of the year."

Although the snowfall tapered off, winds with gusts up to 60 miles an hour continued and near-zero cold was expected as far south as Tennessee tonight.

Storm in Midwest

The Midwestern half of the storm battered Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, leaving thousands snowbound Sunday night and Monday. Drifts were reported 20 feet high in some Ohio areas.

Youngstown, Ohio, with 16 inches, called it the worst snowstorm in 13 years. St. Louis had 8.1 inches, the most in six years.

The southern half of the storm brought Florida its first snow in six years. It melted quickly, but plunging temperatures were the main concern with below-freezing temperatures recorded in central Florida.

The storms converged and their combined punch smacked them as Mr. and Mrs. John the Northeast. Washington's Capt. Christopher de Grabowski, skipper of the schooner the Enchantress.

The last word from the 58-foot schooner was a distress message radiated Monday that water was knee-deep in the cabin and that the passengers and skipper were going over the side in two dinghies. All had life jackets.

First Emergency Call
Winds in the area were estimated at 35 to 40 knots with seas running 15 to 20 feet. Temperatures dropped to near freezing.

The first emergency call was intercepted by the Coast Guard at 4:08 p.m. Monday.

"I am sinking rapidly," the unidentified caller said. "I have five persons on board."

"I've got two dinghies which won't last long in these seas," he said.

U. S. Refuses to Pledge Review of Canal Treaty as Condition to Talks

Robert Kennedy To Confer With Indonesian Chief

BY LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy leaves today on a trouble-shooting mission for President Johnson — a meeting with Indonesian President Sukarno on the Malaysian situation.

The White House said Monday that Kennedy probably will see Sukarno Thursday in Tokyo where the Indonesian leader will be vacationing. Details were to be announced after Kennedy conferred with Johnson this morning.

Assistant White House press secretary Andrew Hatcher said Monday that Kennedy would be discussing with Sukarno the Malaysian situation.

Sukarno has publicly and repeatedly vowed his intention to crush "neo-colonialism" in Malaysia — meaning British support of the newly formed state.

OAS Peace Committee Meets With Negotiators in Dispute

BY JOE MCGOWAN

PANAMA (AP) — Negotiations between the United States and Panama were deadlocked today after the United States rejected a Panamanian demand that it promise to review the Panama Canal treaty as a condition for resuming relations.

Diplomatic sources said the United States refused to make such a pledge under pressure. The peace committee of the Organization of American States scheduled another meeting today with the U.S. and Panamanian negotiators. The committee postponed its departure for Washington in an effort to help restore diplomatic relations.

But Panamanian Foreign Minister Galileo Solis said his government would decide within 24 hours on a country to take ternal hemorrhaging, according to Coroner James Welch.

The case against Hengen was continued today by County Judge William C. Callow to give Hengen an opportunity to consult with a court appointed attorney. Panama Canal "efficiently and securely" and "cannot allow the security of the Panama Canal to be imperiled."

"The United States continues to believe that when order is fully restored, it should be possible to have direct and candid discussions between the two governments," said the statement, issued after Assistant Secretary of State Thomas C. Mann returned from Panama and conferred with President Johnson for 2 hours and 20 minutes.

There were no outbreaks of violence Monday, although anti-U.S. sentiment was still apparent. Signs reading "Avenue of the Marlyrs" appeared on President Kennedy Avenue, the street dividing the Canal Zone from Panama City, where some of the fiercest rioting occurred last week.

Return to Embassy
In Panama City, business houses reopened and American personnel returned to the U.S. Embassy for the first time.

Panama Wants Complete Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — Panama was reported today to have notified the United States that it intends to go through with a complete break in diplomatic relations and is demanding withdrawal of U.S. diplomats.

In that situation President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk appeared to have no choice, under normal international law, but to order the departure of the ranking U.S. diplomat, Wallace Stuart, and his staff.

since they evacuated the building Friday.

U.S. military authorities at Balboa announced that an evacuation would probably begin today of dependents of U.S. military and civilian personnel desiring to return to the United States rather than return to their homes in the Panama republic.

At Balboa High School and other schools in the Canal Zone, workers began erecting twin flagpoles Sunday in line with the U.S.-Panamanian agreement to fly flags of both nations side by side in the zone.

Workmen Heckled
Groups of U.S. students in cars yelled at the workmen. "We'll never go back to school there," Student defiance of the flag regulations last week mushroomed into the violence that brought relations between the

Wide Hunt for Sinking Vessel

5 Persons Forced to Abandon Schooner Amid High Seas

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Air and surface vessels searched heavy seas 160 miles east of Jacksonville today for five persons forced to abandon a sinking schooner.

The Coast Guard identified them as Mr. and Mrs. John the Northeast. Washington's Capt. Christopher de Grabowski, skipper of the schooner the Enchantress.

$3.4 Billion In Foreign Aid To be Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has told congressional leaders he plans to earmark $3.4 billion for foreign aid spending in the new $97.9 billion budget he will submit next week.

The figure, confirmed by Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, would represent a modest $269 million cut under the actual amount available to the Agency for International Development in the current year ending next July 1.

A presidential committee reviewing overseas assistance is expected to recommend sweeping changes in the aid setup as a result of growing congressional reluctance to vote funds for the program.

Without professing to know any details of these recommendations, Mansfield called in an interview for a division of responsibility among the non-Communist powers that would permit the United States to concentrate economic assistance in Latin America.

"Latin America is the most important area to us," Mansfield said.

14-Man Panel Will Study Hortonville School Problems

Growing Elementary Enrollment, Finances Cited as Difficulties

HORTONVILLE — The newly-organized Hortonville Board of Education, faced with an expanding elementary enrollment since consolidating last summer, has named a 14-man citizens advisory committee to study mounting problems.

The committee has been selected in the same proportion from throughout the district, the same as board members. Members and the towns they represent are Jerome Peters, Greenville; chairman; Mrs. Mary Bartlett, Hortonville; secretary; Robert Schmit, Center; Larry Loos, Ellington; George Deimer, Greenville; Clarence Frye, Hortonville; Mrs. Marie Simon, Greenville; Leo Collar, Hortonville; Robert Schneider, Hortonville; George Jeske, Liberty; Merlin Wolf, Ellington; Mrs. Mae Klitzke, Dale; James Heenan, Grand Chute, and Earl Jentry, Center.

The committee has been divided into three subcommittees to study specific phases of the building program. Number one on the list is a study of what form of administrative organization will meet the present and future needs of the students in the district.

Narrows Choice

It now appears the committee has narrowed the various types of system to a 5-3-4 or a 6-2-4 system. Under the 5-3-4 system there would be five elementary grades, three junior grades and a four-year senior high school.

Supt. George Akin said the type of system must be decided before other plans can proceed. He said a four-year senior high was favored over a three-year senior high because there would not be enough students in the top three grades to have an adequate high school. There would be only 200 to 300 students in the three classes, and an efficient three-year program should have 500 to 700 students.

Financial Status

The financial status of the district as it contemplates building expansion and how population expansion and growth will affect present and future school building needs are major questions being studied by subcommittees of the 14-man group.

Population expansion creates the question of how many elementary schools to build and where. The committee has not decided whether to build two elementary schools or a larger single school in Hortonville.

Rural schools are being used for elementary students, but Akin said in the eastern part of the district, which borders Appleton, the population explosion is greatest, and present schools will not accommodate students much longer.

When the committee was named, it was instructed to prepare written recommendations to submit to the board of education. These recommendations are expected to be ready for presentation at a Feb. 3 board meeting.

Attitude of Society Is Problem of Aged

Executive Director of Governor's Group Talks on Elderly at New London Rotary Club

NEW LONDON — Problems of the elderly are caused by society, not by the normal process of aging, the executive director of the governor's commission on aging said here Monday night.

James McMichael, addressing the New London Rotary Club, said Social Security has arbitrarily set 65 as retirement age.

However, he said with the advances in medicine, most people live another 14 years — with little for them to do.

McMichael said there is great emphasis on youth today and the aged are pushed into the background. Those who have planned retirement and retired 10 years ago with a fair retirement income find it inadequate today due to the rise in the cost of living, he added. In some cases, he said, there are generations of a family over the age of 65.

Acute Problems

Some of the acute problems he listed for senior citizens are inadequate housing, transportation, high cost of medical aid and loneliness.

With day to day changes so rapid, experiences and thinking of the aged is outdated, he added.

In citing statistics, he said about 10.9 per cent of the total population in Wisconsin is over 65 and about 400,000 of these live on incomes of $2,000 or less per year.

He also said about 30 per cent of these citizens over 65 are in mental hospitals in the state, and about 22,000 are in nursing homes. The state is presently working to set up improved nursing home standards to pro-

Scandinavia Youth Fined

Martin Eckhardt Assessed $100 On Driving Charges

WAUPACA — Martin H. Eckhardt, 19, route 1, Scandinavia, was fined a total of $100 Monday when he pleaded guilty of driving without a driver's license and reckless driving. He appeared before Municipal Justice George Whalen.

Eckhardt, who was arrested by Lloyd Cooper, Iowa police chief, told Whalen he wanted to avoid being arrested because he knew he was driving without a driver's license.

Cooper said he chased Eckhardt about 35 miles before abandoning pursuit on an icy road and after he had recognized the driver and car. He said Eckhardt drove at speeds up to 70 miles per hour in Iowa and up to 100 mph on the highways.

Eckhardt said his driver's license was revoked on points May 9, 1963, and was eligible to apply for a new license Aug. 9, 1963. He said he did not apply for a license because he was making monthly payments on his car and because of the cost of insurance, which he said was $200 for three months.

He was fined $75 for reckless driving and $25 for driving without a driver's license.

Chilton Chamber Elects Lawyer Head

Robert Lutz Assumes Presidency at Organization's Annual Banquet

CHILTON — Robert Lutz, a Chilton attorney, was named president of the Chamber of Commerce at the annual banquet Monday in St. Mary Church Hall.

Lutz replaces William Engler Sr. In his acceptance speech, Lutz outlined three goals to shoot for during his one-year term in office. They are increasing membership to 150; continuation of present successful promotional projects, and a new idea which he said would be released after it has been presented to the board of directors.

Lutz stressed the need for complete cooperation within the membership in attaining these goals. One person or the board of directors will not be able to do it alone, he said. They will need the help of every member.

Year's Work

Retiring President Engler gave a short summary of the year's achievements. He listed the scholarship program, in which the chamber gives a grant to college-bound students; industry visitation day; the antique car club's picnic and hay-day and the White Sox boy's camp near Brotherton as some of the more successful projects of the chamber.

In respect to the boy's camp, Engler said he was sure the friendliness of the community served as an important part in

GOP Gives Primary Plans to Candidates

Favorite Son Victory Strategy Told Eight Potential Nominees

Letters have been sent to eight possible Republican presidential candidates along with the "Wisconsin 1964 Victory Plan" by Talbot Peterson, Appleton, state GOP chairman.

The plan, which has as its main part the favorite son candidacy of Eighth District Rep. John Byrnes, Green Bay, for the presidency, was told today by Peterson.

Peterson emphasized in his letter that the state party is not trying to keep anybody out of the Wisconsin spring primary.

He sent the message to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, in 1964, there is a strong possibility Democratic votes in a U.S. Ambassador to Viet Nam, Henry Cabot Lodge, Kentucky effect the results — producing Sen. Thurston Morton, former Vice President Richard Nixon, Michigan Gov. George Romney, Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton and Maine Sen. Margaret Chase Smith.

"Unanimous Hope"

The letter said, "It is the unanimous hope of Republicans in Wisconsin that we can convert the problems raised by the nature of Wisconsin's presidential primary into a unifying, rather than a divisive, force."

"In keeping with this hope, we have adopted the Wisconsin 1964 Victory Plan which has as its initial step, the entry and election of an uncommitted and uncontested slate of delegates in the Wisconsin primary headed by Rep. John W. Byrnes as son."

Peterson said in the letter that "our plan is not intended to be made by Byrnes"

Calumet County Plans Government Day

CHILTON — Final preparations are being made for the second annual county government day April 21 at the courthouse.

Each of five participating schools, Chilton, New Holstein, Stockbridge, Hilbert and Brillion, will elect an officer to fill one of eight posts: county clerk, treasurer, register of deeds, district attorney, sheriff, surveyor and coroner.

The students elected will serve an allotted time. County government day is sponsored by the Calumet Council of the American Legion, with the approval of the county board.

Conduct Elections

The schools will conduct elections according to law. Roland E. Miller, county clerk, will work with the schools in an advisory status.

Elected students also will have a chance to see county government in action in the organizational meeting of the board the same day.

Representatives from each school attended an organizational meeting of the annual affair Thursday and agreed unanimously on the merit of the program. It exposes the youth to the working of county government and offers an experience in conducting campaigns conducted with elective offices, representatives said.

The program will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 3 p.m. with a lunch served at noon.

Shawano-Clintonville May Share Campus Directed by Stevens Point

SHAWANO — Vital facts involved in deciding whether the Shawano-Clintonville area should make an effort to obtain a 2-year college campus administered from Stevens Point State College will be sought by a joint committee appointed by the mayors of Shawano and Clintonville.

A group of about 20 school and city officials from the area were assigned the responsibility for appointing a fact finding committee to Clintonville Mayor Frank Sinkewicz and Shawano Mayor Emil Juedes following a dinner meeting Monday night at the North-Aire Supper Club at Cloverleaf Lakes.

The group, which included school boards from both cities, the mayors and four reporters, heard an outline of the state's plans for two year colleges around the state from Dr. Robert Dezonio and Joe Semrow, Madison, members of the joint staff of the state coordinating committee for higher education.

College Schedule
Dezonio told the board the committee on education is aiming for two-year colleges in the Beloit-Janesville, Waukesha and Rice Lake areas in the 1965-67 biennium; schools at Clintonville - Shawano, Baraboo and West Bend in 1967-69 and Richland Center, Beaver Dam, Tomah, Lake Geneva, Fond du Lac, Rhinelander and Wisconsin Rapids in 1969-71. The purpose of the area colleges is to alleviate anticipated crowding in established institutions and allow parents who could not otherwise afford to send their children to school to do so because of savings involved when children live at home.

Dezonio told the group he was not trying to sell them on the idea of a college in the Clintonville - Shawano area and decried what he termed the "Chamber of Commerce Approach" to obtaining schools for a certain city or section. He said the needs of the children transcended any desire of civic officials to have a college in their city as a matter of economics and prestige.

All the statistics presented by the state staff were favorable to establishing a college in the area. The group was informed the Shawano-Clintonville area is "educationally deprived" because it was not near centers of higher education.

The lack of an institution of learning beyond the high school level was cited as the reason for only 26.6 per cent of Shawano and 27.2 per cent of Waupaca County's high school graduates going on to college.

Dezonio envisioned the Shawano-Clintonville school as taking care of about 150 students from Marion, Manawa, Shawano, Shiocton, New London, Iola, Tigerton, Bowler, Bear Creek, Bondel, Waupaca, Weyauwega and Clintonville.

The area schools might eventually compare to California's junior college system, he said. He believes vocational school aspects of the education system will have a larger role in the future.

'Color and Design' Homemakers' Topic

BRILLION — "Color and Design" was the topic presented at the Wednesday meeting of the KP Homemakers Club. The group met at the Mrs. Rupert Kampke home. Mrs. Max Wittman discussed color problems. The group will have a special interest meeting in February to study furniture buying. The regular meeting will be Feb. 11 at the home of Mrs. Raphael Geiger. Mrs. Joe Hoyer and Mrs. Norman Krahn will be in charge of the project, "Program Planning."

Excavation for the Office-Laboratory building of Appleton Wire Works Corporation, in foreground, got under way recently. The modern building is expected to be finished in about a year. The large building behind the proposed office structure is the firm's product development center which already is in use. (Post-Crescent Photo)

More Expenditures Planned

Appleton Wire Works Records Its Greatest Capital Improvements

Capital expenditures by Appleton Wire Works Corporation in 1963 were greater than in any previous year of the company's history, W. E. Buchanan, president, announced today. Ground was broken last week for a two-story building containing 22,680 sq. ft. of floor space to house research laboratories and general offices. This marked the first step in 1964's capital expenditures program which will more than double the company's 1963 outlay.

"These large-scale projects are intended primarily to improve quality of our products and reduce our costs, rather than for any major increase in plant capacity," Buchanan stated. "We are plowing back substantial sums into new facilities for the purpose of assuring the continuity of our business."

In the highly competitive economy that characterizes today's marketplace, survival cannot be taken for granted by any manufacturer who merely stands pat on the products and performance on which his success was established. New developments in materials, in design, and in production efficiency keep coming along. We believe that Appleton Wire Works Corporation cannot afford to be anywhere except in the forefront of our industry's progress."

Points to Fact

Buchanan pointed to the fact that the laboratory and general offices will be under one roof, and also to the building's location as indicating the firm's major emphasis in the years ahead. The structure is placed adjacent to the brand-new Products Development Center in which equipment is currently being installed, and also it abuts the recently modernized building where Fourdrinier wires are chrome-plated by the process — still being developed — that Appleton Wire Works has pioneered. Two units already are in operation for chrome-plating wires up to 300 inches wide, and a third unit now being designed will be installed as soon as it can be completed.

"New research-and-development type job opportunities for qualified personnel will open up when the Products Development Center goes into active service later this year," Buchanan forecast. "There will be further jobs created by expansion in our chrome-plating operation and in other departments. All this fits squarely into our company's basic philosophy of community

Appleton Wire Works Corporation also announced that its plant at Montgomery, Ala., has gone to a seven-day work week, thereby following the practice of paper mills in the South. This move is adding 25 per cent more people to the payroll there, and increases the plant's capacity sufficiently to yield new production that is needed for adequate service of the paper industry.

General contractor for the new Appleton laboratory-office building is P. G. Miron Construction Company, Inc.

Poodle Called 'Peary' Off Exploring

NEENAH — A French poodle — named "Peary" after the North Pole discoverer — has been braving along Lake Winnebago shores the same kind of weather his namesake must have had on his polar expeditions.

The poodle, a medium-sized grey male, has been missing since Dec. 8 when his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Clouse, moved from their home at 512 Winnebago Heights to the apartment building at 1004 Main St. prior to their leaving on Feb. 1 for the Kimberly - Clark Corp. Shasta Mill in California to which Clouse has been transferred.

Some friends had agreed to care for the dog until the Clouses left for California but the dog got away. It has been seen running up and down the west shoreline of Lake Winnebago, playing with children, but always getting away before anyone could catch him and return him to the Clouses.

Probation of Iola Man Revoked

WAUPACA — Probation of Ron add E. Olsen, 31, route 1, Iola, was revoked Monday by Municipal Justice George Whalen on a recommendation by LaVern Hanke, parole and probation agent.

Olsen was sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail to run concurrent with the 60 days in the county jail he received Thursday when he was arrested for driving after his driver's license was revoked.

Olsen was placed on probation for one year Jan. 11, 1963, when Whalen stated a 90-day sentence after Olsen pleaded guilty of drunken driving and driving without a driver's license.

Hanke told the court Olsen was arrested twice for driving after his license was revoked since he was arrested for drunk driving.

and waited in concealment, hoping the dog would come close enough so he could call to it and capture it. He waited as the dog trotted nearer and nearer.

Then several young boys spotted the dog, let out a scream and the dog bounded away, headed east and out of earshot.

The last the Clouses saw of the dog's tracks but could not locate their six-year old pet ing eastward across Lake Winnebago. He hasn't been spotted since on the west shore where Clouses went out onto Lake Winnebago to scan the shoreline in hopes of finding the pet. Lloyd went on foot, starting from the north, and Mrs. Clouse traveled by car, beginning from the south and working her way

Smoking and Government

Given the conclusions of the advisory committee that heavy cigarette smoking causes lung cancer and increases the risk of death from other ailments, we face now the difficult question of how far the government should go in discouraging smoking.

The report actually discloses no new facts or ideas. No original research was involved. But it does represent the considered judgment of 10 experts who have spent considerable time reviewing and evaluating all of the information which was available on the subject.

The findings should make it plain to any individual that he assumes considerable risk to his life if he continues heavy cigarette smoking. It also states that there is no evidence that filters reduce the danger.

As the evidence has accumulated over recent years, there has been no suggestion that laws should be passed prohibiting the sale of cigarettes. After our nation's experience with prohibition of alcoholic beverages there will be no such demands, except perhaps by a few zealots.

How far should governments then proceed, short of such a prohibition?

Broad educational programs to make the significant points of the study available to everyone would be one logical approach. Strict surveillance of cigarette advertising to prevent any claim that certain cigarettes or filters are less dangerous than others is certainly warranted. Such surveillance may also seek to make cigarette advertising less appealing to youth.

Since federal and state governments realize over $3 billion annually in taxes on cigarettes, they are to some extent partners in the tobacco business. Our own State Conservation Department recently complained about a drop-off in the proceeds of such taxes which are financing the acquisition of lands for conservation and recreation purposes. The federal Agriculture Department has been a staunch ally of the tobacco grower, for from an economic standpoint it is the nation's fifth most valuable crop.

Reliance of government programs on cigarette taxes should be certainly re-evaluated.

But when it comes to the basic question of government's responsibility for the way a person lives his own life, we must be on guard for any invasion of this privacy. The automobile today is also a terrible killer, but this does not mean that we should abolish the automobile.

The sanest targets for an intensified educational program on the cigarette smoking question are the youth of America. The easiest way to stop smoking is never to start. The message should be presented to students at proper levels in as effective a way as can be devised.

The Jocular Mr. Reynolds

Governor Reynolds is no doubt having some chuckles as he observes the straight-faced way in which the news wires in recent weeks have swallowed his elaborately contrived "invitations" to Republican presidential contenders to file their names for test votes in the Wisconsin presidential primary next April.

The governor is a Democrat, and one of the fervent stripe that is not often chosen for high office in Wisconsin. We cannot imagine any Republican who might be nominated for the presidency who would have his vote in the elections next November. It will be Mr. Reynolds' concern, we can say without the shadow of a doubt, to do whatever lies in his power to defeat the Republican nominee and as many other Republican candidates as can be managed in the new campaign.

What Mr. Reynolds wants, and the wish is so transparent that we wonder why the news bureaus don't reject these artifices out of hand, is to encourage the kind of fraternal warfare among the Republicans that will damage the challenging party.

Circumventing the Constitution

When it passed the controversial foreign aid bill, Congress restored the restricted-favorable status to both Poland and Yugoslavia at the discretion of the President. But there are efforts around the country to interfere with trade arrangements passed by Congress.

Several groups are organized to encourage boycotts of stores where Polish hams are sold, for instance, in order to persuade the dealers not to carry any goods from Communist countries, although the federal government permits this. In some dozen communities in the nation city ordinances have been passed either prohibiting the sale of "Communist goods" or requiring a license to do so and signs advertising the fact that the store handles such "Communist goods." In at least one community the license is $5000, enough to discourage any dealer from handling goods that are hardly lucrative anyway.

The United States Constitution gives the power to regulate foreign trade exclusively to the federal government. The United States Supreme Court, in decisions some time ago, ruled that the constitutional congressional power to "regulate commerce with foreign nations" is "exclusive and plenary" and it cannot be "limited, qualified or impeded to any extent by state action." The states are forbidden by the Constitution from laying "imposts or duties on imports or exports" except with congressional permission.

Quite obviously the local ordinances do impede foreign trade. Few dealers wish to display signs saying that they carry Communist goods. Few even wish to get into a court case on the matter which is necessary if the ordinances are to be erased. However, several such cases have been brought to court in Columbus, Ohio. In one case, the Columbus Municipal Court held that the ordinance was unconstitutional but the judges came to split decisions in two other cases so the matter has not been clearly decided by the courts.

Of course Americans have the right to protest laws that are passed at any level of government. Those who argue that trading with Communist nations helps the enemy have grounds for their point of view although we are in disagreement with it. But the place to protest is in Congress where the authority for regulating commerce exists—and has existed since the United States of America was born.

Rebel General's Wife in North

106 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Monitor for Jan. 2, 1861.

We find the following in the New Haven (Conn.) Palladium of this morning:

The wife of the rebel Gen. Gustavus W. Smith is the daughter of Capt. Abner Bassett, of New London, Conn. About a fortnight ago she suddenly arrived home. It was given out that she had safely passed through the Union lines in disguise and she had come North to remain.

Since her arrival she has been very free to avow the most disloyal sentiments, exhibiting such rancor and violence as could not be tolerated. The case was reported to Washington, and the result was that on Monday night the woman left New London in the charge of an army officer, to be handed over to Gen. Butler at Fortress Monroe and by him returned across the lines to her rebel friends.

Sending this woman back finishes the matter up very properly, as far as she is concerned but the next thing is to find where the blame belongs for her ever getting through the lines to come North.

It is by no means unlikely that sending her back is just what she wanted.

It is altogether probable that she came North on some errand which, having been accomplished, she is quite ready to be escorted back to Richmond under military honors.

Four Freedoms Award Comes At Nice Time for Humphrey

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

The already busily boiling Democratic vice presidential kettle is being further steamed up by a coup by Senator Hubert Humphrey.

The voluble Minnesotan is to be the recipient of the 1964 award of the Four Freedoms Foundation "for distinguished service in the cause of freedom." It will be presented to the Senate Democratic Whip at a big dinner in New York City, at a date still to be agreed on.

For Humphrey, the prestigious Four Freedoms award is a fortuitous break in the vice presidential scramble in which he is an unabashed eager aspirant.

In addition to affording him an imposing forum to make a well-publicized address before some 1,500 liberal, labor and other leaders, the award also places him in eminent political company.

Others who have received this award include former President Truman; the late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt; the late General George Marshall, World War II Chief of Staff; Undersecretary of State Averell Harriman; Henry Cabot Lodge, Ambassador to South Viet Nam and 1960 Republican vice presidential candidate; AFL-CIO President George Meany, and Dr. Ralph Bunche, top UN official.

Another recipient was then-Vice President Lyndon Johnson — who was formally designated for the 1963 award, but mysteriously never got around to setting a date to accept it.

This curious backstage hassle has never been clarified.

STRANGE INTERLUDE — Early in the fall of 1962, Johnson agreed to accept the Four Freedoms award, and the foundation, headed by former Judge Ferdinand Pecora, famed for his bare-knuckle probing of Wall Street in the early days of the New Deal, made preparations for an elaborate presentation dinner.

But as this column exclusively disclosed, Johnson repeatedly stalled on approving a date. At various times, he pleaded the long session of Congress, the grim Cuban missile crisis, a trip abroad and other excuses.

Finally, when foundation officials submitted three dates and insisted on a definite answer, Johnson's press aide sent regrets and asserted he was too busy.

Jarred by this strange brush-off, the foundation withdrew the award and none was presented last year. Privately, officials have since made no secret of their indignation at Johnson.

Senator Humphrey is responding very differently.

When the award was tendered by long-distance phone during the Christmas holidays, he accepted instantly and confirmed that in telegrams to foundation officials. He told them, "I gratefully accept this honor and will contact you in early January to confirm date for New York dinner."

Obviously, Humphrey feels that accepting this notable liberal award — which Johnson ducked after agreeing to take it — won't hurt his prospects to be Johnson's running mate.

The Four Freedoms Foundation, organized in 1951 to "perpetuate the ideals of the four freedoms of President Franklin D. Roosevelt," distributes literature in schools, sponsors essay contests, and presents an annual award to a nationally-known leader.

POLITICALS — William Green III, son of the late representative and Philadelphia Democratic boss, may run for his father's seat. Young Green, 25, is a senior law student at Villanova, and has assurances of backing from a number of his father's top lieutenants. . . . HEW Secretary Anthony Celebrezze, former mayor of Cleveland, apparently is very enthusiastic about Washington's razzle-dazzle social whirl. He and his wife attend more parties than any other Cabinet member. Not far behind are Postmaster General and Mrs. Gronouski-like Celebrezze, appointed in 1963 . . .

The inside word is circulating among California Democratic politicians that the new "man to see" for White House jobs and other reasons is Lloyd Hand, young Texas lawyer who lives in Bel Air, ritzy suburb of Los Angeles. Hand moved there three years ago as representative of Houston insurance interests. A former assistant of Johnson, Hand is in close touch with the new President. Hand also is close to Democratic State Chairman Eugene Wyman and Governor Pat Brown, both of whom are quietly grooming Hand for Congress or some other high office. Hand is staying in the background, but readily admits, "I'm glad to do whatever I can to serve the President." . . . Partisans of Senator Hubert Humphrey are urging his Minnesota colleague, Senator Eugene McCarthy, to publicly disavow having presidential aspirations, but to no avail so far. McCarthy, up for re-election this year, contends, "If I make any statement on the vice presidency, it would imply I am seeking the nomination. So I figure the best thing to do is to say nothing."

GOP POLITICALS — Former Vice President Nixon is quietly organizing a research staff to keep him abreast of domestic and foreign developments. Several hold-overs from the Eisenhower administration working in the Pentagon have been offered jobs by Nixon with salaries up to $30,000. So far there have been no takers. . . . Governor Nelson Rockefeller is having second thoughts about entering the May 5 District of Columbia and May 19 Maryland primaries. His private polls show him running poorly in both. . . . Washington partisans of Senator Barry Goldwater are very emphatic a slate of delegates will be entered under his banner in the District. They are confident he can sweep it, pointing out that the late Senator Robert Taft carried the capital by a big margin in an informal 1952 primary. . . .

Former President Eisenhower is speaking in Detroit as part of the 40-city Republican $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner at the personal request of Governor George Romney. National Chairman William Miller planned to have Eisenhower appear in Los Angeles, but Romney telephoned the latter and persuaded him as a personal favor to come to Detroit. Romney thereupon had himself slated as the Washington speaker. Miller was miffed, but had to go along with the changes. . . . Governor William Scranton thinks it's very possible the Republican Vice presidential candidate may be a woman. The Pennsylvanian told a group of GOP women leaders, "There isn't any reason why a woman shouldn't be the party's running mate. Women have served successfully as governors, senators and heads of state in other countries. So I see no reason why a woman can't be Vice President."

Reynolds Again Uses Publicity to Humble Republican Opponent

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—The scene was unpleasant and disturbing when the Republican members of the State Building Commission took turns the other day in publicly denouncing the governor of the state in terms that a self-respecting bureaucrat would not employ in reprimanding an office boy.

Besides impugning the dignity of their own offices, and that of the governor, as well as the importance of the commission they compose together, these angry critics were obviously acting out of frustration.

As he has a habit of doing in his seemingly inept and clumsy but often calculated way, Gov. Reynolds had outmaneuvered them. Too proud and too indignant to make the best of it, they turned to invective.

HOW IT WENT

For months the Republicans on the commission and the governor have been quarrelling, with the mutual restraint that their offices command, about how the available state building funds should be used. The Republicans tend to be cautious. Reynolds tends to be impulsively generous in such matters. A test came on a proposal to build four new infirmary units at Central Colony, Assemblyman McKay wanted to cut it to two, and had the votes to carry the day.

But the Republicans did what Republicans have been doing, to their peril, all during the first year of their relations with the Democrat who was unexpectedly elected to the governorship.

They underestimated him. It is somehow impossible for the typical Republican, who regards himself as intellectually superior to the man in the governor's office, to perceive that the governor, in spite of his courthouse handshake and altogether unsophisticated demeanor, is actually one of the shrewdest of the politicians now working at the capitol.

It was an infuriating dilemma. But, careful politicians would not have allowed themselves to be caught in it. More particularly, the careful politician uses such opportunities as come his way, and in Reynolds' case, the only tool he had to fight the men who held the majority vote was publicity. He used it well and obviously to the surprise of his enemies.

It is especially difficult for Republicans as a group to understand the uses and the abuses of publicity. Man for man the Democratic politicians of Wisconsin are better schooled in that art than their foes. But here again the Republicans tend to grumble and complain and make scatter-shot accusations about a lack of integrity and objectivity of the organs of public communication — without reflecting upon the possible shortcomings in their own styles and methods.

Strictly Personal

World Today Engaged In Nightmarish Race

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There are two main reasons for war: one is external, and the other is internal. One is in the world; the other is in the mind.

The external reason is "gain" of one sort or another — land, minerals, property, slaves, gold, and all the familiar fruits of conquest.

The internal reason is "fear" of one sort or another — fear of being attacked, of being outstripped or outshone, of being dishonored, or simply the animal fear of the strange, the different, the unfamiliar.

When these external and internal reasons converge — as they do with periodic regularity in human history — a war is inevitably set off. They represent an irresistible combination of explosive factors.

All this has changed today, but we still do not know it. The external reason is fast disappearing in modern society: science has begun to conquer the secret of energy.

In the past, the national drive for slaves, for coal, for oil, for arable land, has been the desire for increased energy which can then be translated into wealth. It required an immense amount of hard work to attain and harness this energy effectively.

We are now on the threshold of liberating thermonuclear energy. By discovering the principle of magnetic heat insulation, scientists have demonstrated that within our lifetime the thermonuclear generation of electricity could be in global use.

What this means, of course, is that the material well-being of everybody everywhere could be raised to a reasonable level. There would no longer be "underdeveloped" countries; the vast inequities of wealth and poverty in most parts of the world would be equalized — not in the communist way of taking away from the rich, but by giving to the poor from this unprecedented surplus of thermonuclear energy.

This is not a dream. It is not a Utopian mirage. The very same technological advances that make the next war so frightening and so incredible contain the potential for removing the material causes of war. And this is the supreme irony of our time: we are so close to man's perennial hope of well-being, and yet never before so close to extinction.

It is a nightmare race we are engaged in. Can we restrain our internal reason — our fear, our hate, our lust — long enough to create an adequate organization of society that will utilize these new sources of energy for peace and security? Can we tame the beast within us until we have created abundance for all? This is the first, and perhaps the last question facing mankind today.

There's a new affluence in Russia too. Soviet foreign policy now features wall-to-wall carping.

Reynolds turned to a tool he has mastered better than most of his contemporaries, which is one of the most valuable assets of his office, and which the Republicans should have learned from a dozen other encounters is usually a costly one for them.

He turned to his command of publicity, as the highest elected officer of the state. He employed a couple of new conferences to turn the publicity spotlight on McKay as the man who was obstructing the intrinsically popular and emotional cause of treatment facilities for the unfortunate mentally retarded children. It was a fight that the Republicans couldn't win, and one which more prudent politicians would not have started. But instead of acknowledging the skill with which they had been put on the spot by their adversary, they cried foul and bitterly assailed the governor for smearing them through making them appear as cruel and hard-hearted on the issue of public aid for mental retardation. They were only trying to strike a balance between the needs of the unfortunate, and the capacity of the taxpayers, they said. But nobody was listening.

INFURIATING

It was an infuriating dilemma. But, careful politicians would not have allowed themselves to be caught in it. More particularly, the careful politician uses such opportunities as come his way, and in Reynolds' case, the only tool he had to fight the men who held the majority vote was publicity. He used it well and obviously to the surprise of his enemies.

It is especially difficult for Republicans as a group to understand the uses and the abuses of publicity. Man for man the Democratic politicians of Wisconsin are better schooled in that art than their foes. U. S. Self-Conscious in Dispute With Panama

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — While there is some similarity between events now involving the Panama Canal and what happened at the Suez Canal in 1956 there is small chance the outcome will be the same.

The Egyptians seized Suez in 1956 and have run it since. But Secretary of State Dean Rusk says this country cannot afford to pull out of the Panama Canal Zone even though the Panama Assembly has demanded Panamanian control.

What was similar at both canals was the rising nationalism of Egyptians and Panamanians and their resentment of a foreign presence on their soil: the British at Suez and Americans in Panama.

By-Product
In both cases, Egyptian and Panamanian nationalism was a by-product of World War II, which left the European colonial powers so prostrated they had to yield their colonies.

To Panamanians and others, particularly in Latin America, Americans in Panama no doubt mean sheer colonialism even though this country has a treaty with Panama to be there and run the canal.

Because this country is so big, considers itself the leader of the free world, and is trying to keep small and backward countries away from communism, it cannot help but feel self-conscious in its dispute with poor and tiny Panama.

Feel Encouraged
For this reason the Panamanians can feel encouraged to push and push for concessions. By the same token, this country undoubtedly will feel compelled to make them although, from what Rusk says, not total withdrawal.

The background of the two canals is not identical.

While the French built the Suez Canal in 1869, the British became the canal company's biggest stockholder in 1875. They subsequently built a huge military base at Suez.

After the war, the Egyptians, like the rest of the Arab world, had enough of colonialism. They saw the British give up India in 1948. In 1952 an army revolt threw out King Farouk and took over Egypt. Not long afterward Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser became president.

British Pressured
He pressured the British into pulling their troops out of Suez. The United States and Britain hoped to win him over, offered to help him build a huge dam across the Nile. He dickered with the Soviet Union and tried to play both ends against the middle. He proclaimed himself a neutralist.

The United States and Britain withdrew their offer of help on the dam. Nasser retaliated by seizing the canal. Not long afterward Britain, France and Israel began an invasion of Egypt. This came to a quick stop when the United States and the Soviet Union disapproved.

The canal company's contract with Egypt was to run until 1968 after which the Suez was to be turned over to Egypt. Nasser took it 12 years ahead of time. The situation is different with the Panama Canal.

1903 Treaty
This country's 1903 treaty with Panama for American control of the canal completely lacks a limit like the British had at Suez. It says American control is to run forever, or at least indefinitely. This alone has irritated Panamanians.

But they benefit from the canal although whether they could benefit more if they tried to run it themselves is something else.

Panama gets almost $2 million a year from this country for use of the canal. Any income from the canal above operating costs is spent on improvements. The Panamanians get money from jobs they hold in the zone and from money spent in Panama itself by ships crews and tourists.

Commercial Value
The canal has commercial importance to this country but not nearly so much military value as when it was built and this country had a one-ocean navy. But it is, in a sense, a military base. There are 36,000 Americans in the zone, including 10,000 troops and their families.

The Panamanians—at this time—will probably settle for less than control of the canal. They have made other demands: more money for use of the canal, some changes in the treaty, better pay for Panamanians working in the zone.

Nasser could seize Suez without declaring war on Britain because the last British troops had left before he acted. Panama could hardly try to grab the canal, if it ever had such a thought, without attacking American forces.

Crystal Ball Cloudy But Few Surprises in Offing

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — What's in store for us in 1964?

A deep peer into our clouded crystal ball shows we can look forward to the mixture as tourist—fore—but with some surprises, pride, however, the statue

On the international front, it turned out by the sculptor will seems safe to predict, Soviet Premier Khrushchev will find at least 700 million reasons to grasp the Western world in an ever more cordial embrace—and all the reasons are Chinese.

Belt Lightening
In Washington, as a result of stringent belt-tightening by the Democrats in their new federal economy program, the government will announce it has used 1,364,283,195 fewer paper clips than during any year of the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration.

Republicans will counter with an accusation that a number of employees of the U.S. Department of Agriculture have been secretly taking home government-bought pencils and letting their children use them to do their home work.

Both political parties will call vigorously for a reduction in taxes—and 99 million taxpayers will give a big fat yawn. They know that if one level of government takes less from you, another level will take more.

All in all, 1964 promises to be a zany, wonderful year, and life will remain what it has always been—the only thing worth living government takes less from you. Be sure to do your share of it.

of government will take more. In an unexpected goodwill gesture, the taxicab drivers of Paris will raise a fund to build a monument to the American tourist. As a matter of national pride, however, the statue turned out by the sculptor will seem closely resemble President Charles de Gaulle.

Grain Storage
A more inexpensive way of handling the nation's grain surplus will be found. It will be stored in government-built bomb shelters. In case of an emergency, the citizen will merely shovel out the grain, or crawl in and pull it over his head.

In medicine the big news will be the discovery of two more sure cures for the common cold. After trying them both, the average man will find the only sure thing about them is that they sure don't work.

As a result of continued automation, more people will be working less — and enjoying it less, too. But business will be generally on the upgrade, and the competition for the big buck will go on unchecked.

All in all, 1964 promises to be a zany, wonderful year, and life will remain what it has always been—the only thing worth living government takes less from you. Be sure to do your share of it.

Employee Tax Breaks in Treasury, Court Rules

BY SYLVIA PORTER
(in collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

Employees received important tax breaks through little known treasury rulings and court decisions last year.

Be sure you don't overlook any of these more liberal deductions on your 1963 income tax return.

(1) The hundreds of thousands of us who travel away from home on business can now deduct for the first time the reasonable costs of our personal laundry, cleaning and pressing expenses during our trips. For the first year too, the Treasury will allow you to deduct the cab fares from your hotel or motel to your customers while on your business trips.

(2) The treasury also has agreed to allow a deduction for car commuting expenses in certain situations—although as a general rule commuting expenses continue not deductible. A deduction is now permitted when you use a car to carry heavy or bulky tools and would not otherwise use the car. For instance, a musician who uses his car to transport bulky musical instruments and who otherwise would not have used his car, can deduct his car commuting expenses.

(3) Here's good news for you if you are asked to travel to a job interview away from home and are reimbursed for your travel expenses by your prospective employer. The Treasury in 1963 said that the reimbursement paid to a job applicant for travel to and from the interview and for living expenses at the place of interview is not taxable income to the applicant—whether or not he gets the job. Of course, if you're paid more than your actual expenses, you owe tax on the excess.

Offsetting these liberal changes was the treasury's announcement that it will continue to bar deductions for meals on one-day business trips despite a circuit court of appeals decision which allowed this decision. The treasury insists that a business traveler must be away from home at least overnight (or its equivalent) to get a deduction for the cost of meals on the trip. As an illustration, suppose you're a New York businessman and you go to Washington for a business conference, stay overnight and take the first plane home the next day — you can deduct all your travel, lodging and meal costs under the treasury rule because you were away from home overnight. But if you flew to Washington, had your business conference and flew back the same day, the treasury would bar you from deducting any meal costs on your trip because you weren't away from home overnight.

If you're an employee whose employer requires you to change job locations, you got a valuable help from the tax court last year. The treasury's view is that an employee who lays out his own money for the moving expenses because his employer requires the move and then is reimbursed by his employer need not pay any tax on the reimbursement.

Pocket Expenses
But what if you're not reimbursed at all, or only partly, by your employer? Can you deduct your out-of-pocket expenses?

The treasury says no, but the tax court held that the treasury is wrong because its rule discriminates between the employee who is repaid and the one who is not reimbursed and they both should be treated equally for tax purposes. Equal tax treatment would let you, the employee, deduct the unreimbursed part of your moving expenses. The treasury, though, hasn't yet agreed that the tax court is correct; so if you deduct the unreimbursed moving expense on your 1963 tax return, the treasury may disallow it.

Not all the court news was good for employees on the move. A common problem faced by many employees who are shifted to new job locations is that they are forced to sell their old homes at a loss. Employers often will reimburse a transferred employee for loss on sale of his home as well as for moving expenses.

While the employee need not pay tax on the reimbursement he receives for his moving expenses, the courts in 1963 agreed with the treasury that he owes a tax on the reimbursement he gets from his employer to make up the loss on sale of his house.

Oklahoma City Residents to Get Sonic Booms

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Think your nerves could stand eight sonic booms a day for the next six months? Residents here are going to find out.

Gordon Bain, deputy Federal Aviation Agency administrator, says public reaction to the disturbances will have a great deal to do with the future of overland flights in supersonic transport planes.

8 Flights
The FAA, beginning in February, will conduct a program during which eight flights daily pass over residential areas at speeds greater than the speed of sound.

Reaction to the resulting sonic booms will provide an insight, Bain said Monday night at a briefing for newsmen who were invited to attend a supersonic flight demonstration today at Clinton - Sherman Air Force Base.

Fighter Planes
Air Force F104 fighter planes will create the booms on flights at 30,000 to 40,000 feet over Oklahoma City.

Bain said the FAA believes supersonic transport plane may be the finest commercial transport that has ever flown.

"But it is necessary to find out how people feel about this phenomenon," he said. "The only true judge of acceptability

Doctor Tells Woman to Have Gallstone Out

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: About six years ago when I was in the hospital I had some X-rays which showed a gallstone about the size of a walnut. My doctor advised surgery but not immediately. A friend said this could turn into cancer if I didn't have an operation.

I haven't had any attacks, but when I am sitting or trying to bend over, it is hard for me to straighten up. This scares me. Something seems to get stuck under my rib and I can feel a lump for a few seconds. Do you advise surgery or can it wait?

MRS. A. G. I won't say whether gallstones "turn into cancer, or cause cancer, but we do know that cancer of the gall bladder is more frequent among patients who have had gallstones which have been allowed to remain.

This includes the "silent" gallstones, which do not cause any discomfort to the patient.

Therefore, to my mind, the answer is obvious: If you know you have such a stone, don't just let it stay there unless there is some good reason otherwise for doing so.

You say that your walnut-sized stone was discovered when you were in the hospital and had X-rays. I presume this means that you were hospitalized for something else, and the gallstone was discovered incidentally.

Advise Surgery
Your doctor "advised surgery but not immediately." Evidently he was primarily concerned with whatever caused you to be in the hospital. That makes good sense. He wanted that whatever it was — cleared up first.

But when he said the gallstone should be removed, I don't think he meant that you should wait six years. Do you?

Whether your present discomfort is from the gallstone (thus is possible) or from some muscular or other disorder (also possible) I can't say without having the results of some other tests and observations. Maybe I couldn't tell then. It's not always easy to know just what causes which symptoms.

But if I had a walnut-sized stone in my gall bladder, I'd have it out.

Yes, as a physician I'd be reluctant to operate for a newly-discovered gallstone in a patient aged, say, 75, on the assumption that if it was causing no trouble, we could leave it alone and it probably wouldn't incite cancer.

But in the 40-50-60-age bracket, I would go ahead and have the surgery. Why wait?

Believe me, even without cancer, an acute gall bladder attack can be a mighty painful experience.

Define Aphasia
Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about aphasia. Can it be detected by brainwave tests?

MRS. J. M. Aphasia is the inability either to understand or to speak words. It implies either disease or injury to the part of the brain which governs speech, usually the left side.

Generally speaking, a brainwave test wouldn't show that a person had aphasia. You wouldn't need a test to show that! But if the aphasia existed, a brainwave test would, or might, disclose a tumor or other lesion in the brain which would account for the aphasia.

Low Thyroid

Dear Dr. Molner I am 23, very overweight, have low thyroid, and have not menstruated for over a year. I have been to two doctors. They told me my weight was probably the cause. What is your opinion?

W. S. Both factors, overweight and low thyroid activity, are known to affect menstruation. Instead of going to two doctors and doubting what they told you, why don't you go to just one, and do something about the trouble?

The doctor can treat you for the thyroid condition which, in turn, may make it easier for you to lose weight, which is your part of the job.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Senate Pledges Inquiry Into Baker Scheme

Florida Venture Involved State's U. S. Sen. Smathers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators pledged today a full inquiry into a joint land venture by former Senate aide Robert G. Baker and Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla.

But today's open hearing remained focused on the vending machine aspects of Baker's business dealings.

The Senate Rules Committee is investigating whether Baker, who resigned under fire last Oct. 7 as Senate Democratic secretary, engaged in business

Baker received $650 a month for helping land a defense plant franchise for another vending machine company.

Smathers' name came up in the testimony late Monday of Milton Hauff, a veteran of 15 years in the Internal Revenue Service, who said he has assisted Baker in preparing his federal income tax returns.

Income Query
Asked if Baker had reported about $4,000 in income on his 1962 return from a land operation in Florida, Hauff replied he was not quite sure of the amount. But he said the income represented Baker's share of a joint Florida land venture with Smathers and the senator's former administrative assistant, Scott I. Peek.

In a statement issued after the hearing, Smathers said that early in 1957 he took a one-fifth interest in a real estate transaction in central Florida. He didn't give any dollar figure or identify the land venture further.

Sold Interests
Smathers said that a few months later at his invitation both Peek and Baker bought one-eighth interests in his share for $1,500 each.

The undeveloped acreage has been sold in small lots and Peek and Baker each has received "a return of slightly over $1,000 a year on his investment over the past seven years," Smathers said.

Peek said in Miami that he had not been in business with Baker and did not want to comment while the investigation is under way.

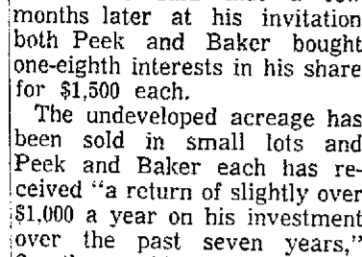

More Testimony
Called back for more testimony today was Eugene A. Hancock of Miami, Fla., president of Automatic Vending Services, Inc., and former president of another vending machine company known as Serv-U Corp.

The committee was told Monday by another witness that punch and became the first announced entry in the GOP senatorial race.

Donley announced Monday night he was a candidate for Senator because he wanted "to save this nation from falling into the Communist orbit." He said he would not seek party endorsement.

Another possible Republican senatorial candidate is David Tillotson, a Wauwatosa teacher who ran unsuccessfully for Congress in 1962 against Democratic Rep. Clement Zablocki in the 5th District.

Vigorous Campaigner

The Wisconsin Republican Executive Committee and party leaders are on record in support of Renk's candidacy. One of his backers is Warren P. Knowles, former lieutenant governor and only announced candidate for governor.

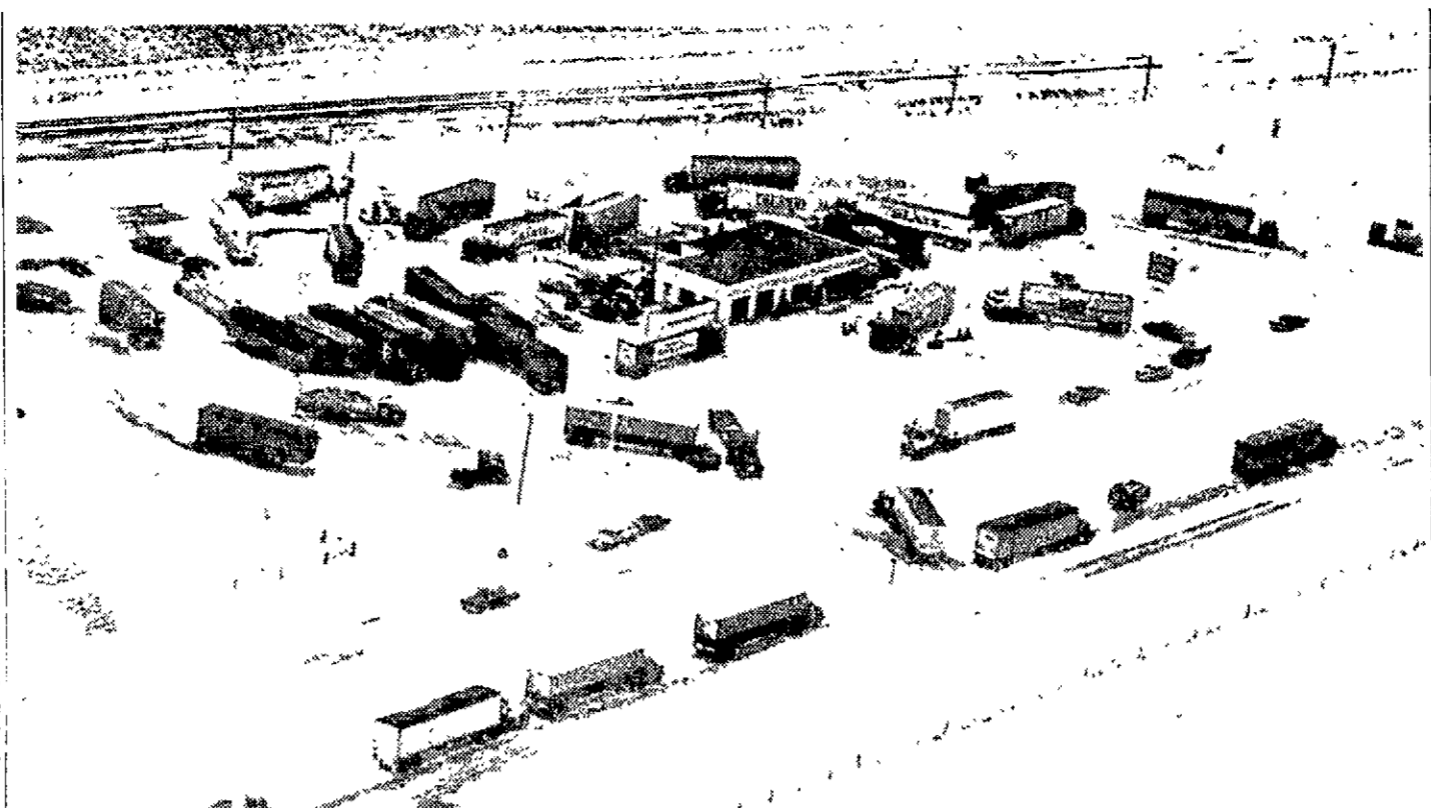

In Politics Since 1932
Renk stamped himself as a vigorous campaigner in 1962 when he sought the Republican nomination for governor. He stumped the state despite lack of party endorsement. The GOP gave its support to Philip G. Kuehn of Whitefish Bay, who lost in the November election to Democrat John W. Reynolds.

Renk has been close to Republican politics since 1932 when he was Dane County Young Republican chairman. In 1948 he was a Harold Stassen delegate to the national GOP presidential nomination convention. In 1952 he was a leading supporter of Eisenhower for President.

In that year most Wisconsin Republican leaders backed the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

In 1960 Renk came out for Nelson Rockefeller for president, but later supported Richard M. Nixon after Nixon won the GOP nomination for president.

The Sun Prairie resident served for nine years as a University of Wisconsin regent, including the presidency of the board. The Renk family has extensive farm operations. Projects include raising of champion sheep, production of hybrid seed corn and the raising of dairy and beef cattle.

United States and Panama to their critical state.

Officials said all schools in the zone would reopen Wednesday, except for an elementary school at Ancon which was damaged during the demonstrations.

Panamanian President Roberto Chiari severed relations with the United States last Friday, after a wild night of violence and attempts by inflamed Panamanians to invade the U.S. controlled Canal Zone. Before order was finally restored Sunday night, three American soldiers and 21 Panamanians had been killed.

No Decisions Aired

A five-man joint authority, formed under OAS auspices to keep peace along the Canal Zone border, held its first meeting Monday but issued no word of any decisions. A source in Washington indicated the border would be patrolled by the Panamanian National Guard and U.S. military forces.

Ambassador Manuel Trucco of Chile was named head of the peace authority, representing the OAS. The U.S. members are William Beldon, political adviser to Gen. Andrew P. O'Meara, commander of U.S. forces in the Canal Zone, and Lt. Gen. George Mabry, chief of U.S. military operations in the zone. Panama named Col. No Danger of Blast

They said there was no danger of explosion from two nuclear weapons aboard the plane because the bombs had not been primed.

They ordered the crash area sealed off for a radius of about 1,500 yards and declined to discuss the exact nature or disposition of the weapons.

A spokesman for Strategic Air Command Headquarters at Omaha, Neb., said both nuclear devices had been recovered.

adviser to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

U.S. congressmen in Washington voiced new disapproval of the 1960 agreement to allow the Panamanian flag to be flown in the Canal Zone.

Flag Ruling Hit

Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said Panama "had no more right to fly her flag there than England has to fly her flag in the capital of the United States." He likened Panama to a blackmailer whose appetite had been whetted by the first payment.

Rep. Armistead Selden, D-Ala., chairman of a House subcommittee on inter-American affairs, maintained the flag concession should have been handled under treaty revision procedures that would have required Senate approval rather than executive action.

"There is no way to appease or satisfy the political appetites of the Panamanians," said Rep. William Cramer, R-Fla.

Byrnes Gives Scholar Fund MCGI Profits of a sale was requested by Scholarships, Inc., Rose said.

A net price after sales commissions of $24,580 was realized, Rose said, on sale of 100 shares at $26 and 866 shares at $25.75. Byrnes was then reimbursed for his purchase price of $2,300 leaving the $22,280 donation.

Rose said the possibility remains that a small income tax will have to be paid on the difference between the price paid by Byrnes and the market price at the time. If this develops, Rose said Scholarships, Inc., had agreed to pay the tax.

Non-Profit Group

Scholarships, Inc., is a non-profit organization in its second year of operation and attracted Byrnes' interest shortly after its founding. It had raised and distributed more than $8,000 in scholarships for graduates of Green Bay high schools who needed help to go to college.

Byrnes, who will be the favorite son candidate in the state April presidential primary provided no national candidates enter, came under fire for making the MGIC stock purchase after it was learned he asked the Treasury Department to reverse a tax ruling for the firm, one of the first in its field.

Byrnes said he acted after a report from the technical staff serving the ways and means committee said MGIC probably would win its case if it had to go to court. The issue involved deferring federal income taxes on premium income the firm was required by Wisconsin law to place in reserve.

In his house speech, Byrnes said that six months after the tax ruling he received a phone call from Paul Rogan, vice president of MGIC, urging him to buy stock as a good investment and acted "on the spur of the moment." It was only after he dug into the circumstances of the purchase that he established he had received a preferred price, he said.

"I swear before my God and this house that had I known these facts I would not have purchased this stock," Byrnes said in the speech.

Canada Will Fire Four Scientific Satellites

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

SPACE: Four Canadian scientific satellites designed to study the ionosphere will be fired into polar orbits from California's Pacific Missile Range between 1965 and 1970.

Plans for launchings were included in an agreement announced today by the Canadian Defense Research Board and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

JFK LIBRARY: Members of John F. Kennedy's family have launched a campaign for $8 million in public contributions to build a library to house the late president's papers.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told a news conference Monday that $2 million of the necessary $10 million had already been pledged — $1 million from the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation and $1 million from other donors.

Kennedy selected the site — across Boston's Charles River from his alma mater, Harvard University — about one month before he was assassinated in Dallas last Nov. 22. Harvard donated the land.

CUBA: A spokesman for Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., says the senator has received reports from refugees and other sources that the Soviet Union has poured additional men and military equipment into Cuba.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said he had also received reports of a new Soviet personnel buildup. But he said he had not been able to check them and added that they "deal entirely with personnel, not weapons."

PAY ROLL CUTBACK: Nearly 6,000 jobs have been eliminated from the federal pay roll for the next two years, the White House reports.

Press aide Andrew Hatcher said Monday that the heads of 47 departments and agencies have chopped 3,291 government jobs for the fiscal year ending June 30, and an additional 2,708 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1965.

WHEAT: Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. expects the Soviet Union to buy considerably more than the 150 million bushels of U.S. wheat for which it is now negotiating.

Roosevelt said Monday night that Russia may be in the market for American wheat for a year or longer. He attributed the Soviet Union's wheat need to fundamental defects in its agriculture system — rather than the failure of one year's crops.

Roosevelt was interviewed on the ABC radio program "From the Capitol."

Good Luck in State Weather Will Continue

Wisconsin's weather luck continued today. Milder temperatures were due back in the state which Monday escaped the big snowstorm that swept through the Midwest and East.

Skies were fair throughout Wisconsin Monday, but cloudiness returned during the night. Nighttime temperatures ranged from a low of 1 below zero at Lone Rock to 13 above at Burlington. Superior had zero, Wausau 2 above, Park Falls 4, Green Bay and Beloit 5, Madison 6, Milwaukee and Eau Claire 7, Racine 10, and La Crosse 11.

Racine topped the maximums Monday with 27 degrees. Other highs ranged down to 14 at Superior.

The outlook called for slightly warmer weather tonight, Wednesday and Thursday.

Long Beach, Calif., set the national high of 70 degrees Monday, compared with the low of 18 below early today at Worland, Wyo.

No Plans to Ban Cigarette Sales, Chicago Mayor Says

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley says Chicago has no plans to ban the sale of cigarettes in light of the federal government report that smoking is a health hazard.

"We found during prohibition that laws like that don't work," Daley told a news conference.

What, asked a reporter, does non-smoker Daley do to relieve tension?

"I talk to the press," the mayor quipped.
